YOUNG WOMAN WHO LEFT N. P. TRAIN LOCATED

Found Lying in Snow in Railroad Cut Near Gladstone, No. Dakota, Report Says

BELIEVED DEMENTED

Had Leaped From Fast Northern Pacific Train After Leaving Miles City

The young woman who leaped from Northern Pacific Train No. 2 Wednesday night between Miles City, Montana, and Hebron, North Dakota, was found about 11:30 o'clock this morning lying in the snow near Gladstone, North Dakota, 100 miles west of here in Stark county, according to information received by The Tribune.

The message said that a farmer found the young woman in a gully near the railroad track. He notified the railroad men at Gladstone and a section man went to get her and take her to Dickinson for medical aid. She is believed to be demented. The young woman, believed to be about 20 years old, admitted she jumped from the train through the window of the berth she occupied, the station added. She slept in a straw hat last night and started wandering again this morning. She was seriously ill from exposure resulting from cold and wandering in the two inches of snow which had fallen over western North Dakota. She refused to reveal her identity.

On Way To Chicago

The young woman was on her way from Seattle to Chicago. When the train left Miles City she returned for the night. Before the train reached Hebron the porter noticed the curfew of the berth moving in the wind and later discovered that the young woman was not in bed. The window was open. Her clothing and luggage were in the car, and after trainmen had initiated a search throughout western North Dakota and eastern Montana along the right-of-way, her luggage was sent on to St. Paul. Section men were ordered by the Northern Pacific railroad to begin a search along the right-of-way, and this they did yesterday, but the search revealed no trace of the missing woman.

WAS UNCONSCIOUS

Dickinson, N. D., Mar. 28.—The unidentified girl who is believed to have fallen or jumped through a Pullman window from a Northern Pacific train sometime Wednesday night or Thursday morning, was found today two miles east of Gladstone. She was unconscious when found.

U. S. RUM CHASER SUNK IN OCEAN

Jacksonville, Fla., March 28.—The 60-ton converted submarine chaser USS, owned by Sheriff W. H. Dowling, and used by him in apprehending rum runners off the Florida coast, sank today in the Florida Gulf of Mexico, about 10 miles east of Jacksonville, following a terrific explosion. Sheriff Dowling, H. L. Duncan, formerly of Minneapolis, but now division prohibition chief for Florida and Porto Rico, and members of the crew got off the Rusa before she went down, but the duty in which they were attempting to reach shore capsized.

For two hours the officers and members of the Rusa crew, who were equipped with life preservers, were rescued about by the United States navy. Three members of the crew were burned, one seriously.

Weather Report

For twenty-four hours ending at noon today.
Temperature at 7 a. m. 20
Highest yesterday 29 Lowest yesterday 25
Lowest last night 20
Precipitation .07
Highest wind velocity 34

WEATHER FORECAST

For Bismarck and vicinity: Cloudy with snow tonight and Saturday. Not much change in temperature.
For North and South Dakota: Cloudy with snow tonight and Saturday. Not much change in temperature.

WEATHER CONDITIONS

A trough of low pressure extends over the Rocky Mountain region causing snow in the Plains States, Rocky Mountain region and in the north Pacific states. The pressure is high over the central Canadian Provinces.
Traffic Not Affected
So far officials here said this morning they did not expect traffic to be seriously impeded by the snow, unless it hangs on for two or three days. The fact that there was no snow against the snow fences and officials had a chance to get plows to work minimized the possible effect. The same report came from the Northern Pacific lines.

BUSINESS IS BETTER IN NORTHWEST, FEDERAL RESERVE AGENT FINDS, REVIEWING INCREASES DURING FEBRUARY

LOW PRESSURE WINS BATTLE, BRINGS SNOW

Western No. Dakota Covered By Blanket Brought In By Wintery Blast

GREAT AID TO CROPS

Snow Characterized as "Best Thing That Could Happen" at This Time

It is all due to Old Man Low Pressure. He smashed down the batteries of Old Lady High Pressure in the eternal battle of air currents, and spread a blanket of snow over much of the Northwest.

Not only did Old Man Low Pressure smash to victory, but he's going to retain the victory for a while, for the forecast is for more snow to come tonight and tomorrow. Old Lady High Pressure is due for a comeback, and the weather ought to begin to clear up. It isn't going to be so terribly cold, either, the weather prognosticators say. It may not even be as cold tonight as last night.

Some kicked those that had to shovel the walks or plow through drifts. But some didn't, and they included those who enjoyed a final blast of winter as a reminder of what they missed, and also the farmers throughout the territory.

This is the finest thing that could happen, said W. Robert, weather observer. This snow is better than a rain. All the frost is out of the top of the ground on account of mild weather, and when this snow melts the moisture will go right into the ground. It is better than rain, for more moisture will go into the ground, and very little will evaporate.

The snow was especially cheerful to the farmers who have done their seeding for the grain will germinate quickly. It also will put the ground in the shape for future seeding operations.

No Cold Wave

At 11 a. m. today it was 22 above, the snow not being accompanied by a cold wave, and at that time about two inches of snow had fallen. The snowfall may reach several inches, the prediction held on. The lowest temperature last night was 20 above. The coldest spot in the Northwest was 6 above, in Winnipeg. It was 24 above at Williston last night and 26 above at Fargo.

Fargo and Jamestown reported snow had not fallen at noon today. The official explanation of the snow is that a trough of low pressure extends over the Rocky Mountain region, causing snow in the Plains States, Rocky Mountain region and in the north Pacific states. The pressure is high over the central Canadian Provinces.

So far officials here said this morning they did not expect traffic to be seriously impeded by the snow, unless it hangs on for two or three days. The fact that there was no snow against the snow fences and officials had a chance to get plows to work minimized the possible effect. The same report came from the Northern Pacific lines.

Abnormally Large Marketing of Grain During February Is Reported, Especially in Grains, Corn and Hogs—More Building Seen, Prices Better, Trade Volume Expands and Banking Conditions Improve.

Business is better in the Northwest. This is the message contained in the monthly trade summary issued today from Minneapolis by John H. Rich, federal reserve agent.

Mr. Rich reports that February business more than made up the losses of January, that the marketing of farm products was abnormally large which placed a great deal of money in circulation and banking conditions improved. Both in number and valuation building permits issued in cities in the reserve district were greater by one fifth than in February last year. Wholesale trade was one-fifth smaller in February than a year previous. Business failures showed a decline, and business volume showed a marked recovery from the January slump, the report stated.

Farm Prices Up
Regarding farm prices in February, the report says:

Prices of the chief products of the farm were firmer during the month of February than during the corresponding months of last year. The price of wheat was one-fifth higher in February than in January, with the exception of rice, for which the price remained unchanged. The price of barley and oats has risen to a point nearer the price of rice than at any time since the war, and corn is selling at a higher price than rice. This situation is an interesting commentary on the relative demand for export grains and grains used for local consumption. Mixed tendencies prevailed in February livestock prices at South St. Paul. The median price of butcher steers and hogs remained unchanged from the January median, prices of lambs and feeder steers increased and butcher cows and veal calves showed slight declines. There were seasonal declines in the Minneapolis wholesale price of butter and eggs, the decline being especially marked in eggs on account of mild weather which has stimulated production. The price of hens snowed. (Continued on page 6)

COLLECTION OF TAXES IS UP

Amount Paid During 1924 in County Above 1923

The coffers of the Barleigh county treasury have been liberally replenished with cash as a result of the payment of taxes in the last month and a half, figures show. The compilation of Deputy County Treasurer Gilbert Hansen shows that tax collections this year thus far exceed those of last year. The comparative figures during the period of heavy tax paying follow:
Receipts, Feb. 15 to March 24, 1923 $386,743.51
Receipts, Feb. 14 to March 24, 1924 $423,470.28
The Northern Pacific Railroad is the heaviest taxpayer, putting something over $100,000 in the treasury. The Soo line paid over $27,000.

TAX BODY TO KEEP ON WITH ITS PROGRAM

Failure to File Petitions For Gunderson Law Does Not End Its Work

PLAN LOCAL UNITS

Levies Already Being Reduced in State Partly Through Efforts, Says Head

Failure of the North Dakota State Taxpayers Association will not halt the work of that association in trying to force the reduction of taxes throughout the state. A. Martin of Sentinel Butte, president of the association, declared before returning to his home, Mr. Martin came here yesterday, expecting to receive in the mail sufficient petitions to place on the ballot in June an initiative measure providing for a 25 percent reduction in taxes, with conditions excluding bond issues and other standing debt on which interest is sinking. Fund levies must be maintained and permitting districts to minimize the cut to 10 percent by a vote.

"I had about 9,000 signatures on petitions and 10,000 were requested," said Mr. Martin, "and therefore could not file the petitions. The death of Mr. Gunderson, who was the president of our association, disorganized the work, the drawing of the bill in preparation of petitions required time, and we were able to get the petitions to the public before 12 days ago, on the 25th of March. The people signed the petitions readily when they were presented and I feel safe in saying that if we had had another week to work we could have had 15,000 names on petitions without any trouble."

November Uncertain

Whether the association will seek to initiate the law at the November election is a question, Mr. Martin said. A meeting of the taxpayers' organization will be held in the near future, he said. "We propose to perfect an organization in every county in the state," said Mr. Martin. There is very great interest being shown in the matter. We feel that levies this year in the state will be reduced several millions of dollars, and that the fear of association counted somewhat to this end.

"I believe a really concerted effort is being made by local boards all over the state, including school boards, to reduce taxes, and I feel that much good will come from the wide spread discussion."

HAYS ORDERED CALLED AGAIN TO OIL PROBE

Former Chairman of Republican National Committee To Be Summoned Again

WALSH'S BROTHER IS ON

Testifies Before Oil Committee After Subpoena Was Issued For Spencer

Washington, Mar. 28.—(By the A. P.)—Wall H. Hays, former chairman of the Republican national committee, will be recalled before the oil committee. The request for his subpoena was made by Senator Walsh, the committee prosecutor, whose brother John Walsh a Washington attorney, was called in today's hearing as the first witness.

Senator Walsh wanted to question Hays regarding a telegram he sent from Sullivan, Indiana, which chairman Ladd read into the record. The telegram said that "never at any time for any purpose did I receive from Jake Hamon $25,000 or any other sum directly or indirectly, personally or on behalf of the Republican national committee or otherwise."

At Jennings, the former train robber, testified yesterday that Hamon had told him of a payment of $25,000 to Hays.

John Walsh was subpoenaed yesterday at the instance of Senator Spencer, Republican, Missouri, and he insisted that he heard today. Senator Spencer said he was not ready but after Senator Walsh said his brother's business had been under investigation and the fact that he had been left subpoenaed left him under suspicion Walsh took the stand.

GOOD ROADS TO BE TOPIC FOR FORUM DINNER

Association of Commerce Members Will Gather Next Wednesday Night

A Forum Dinner will be given by the Association of Commerce at the McKenzie hotel on the night of April 2, it was announced today.

Reserve Wednesday, April 2, as Association night, says a message which will go out to all members tomorrow.

There will be a good program, with W. C. Black, chief engineer of the highway commission; A. D. McKinnon, project engineer and T. R. Atkinson, county surveyor, on the program. There will also be discussion on the subject.

Scott Cameron will preside at the Forum Dinner, and Spencer House will lead in community singing. Other special music is planned to make it an enjoyable night.

The arrangements are in charge of Judge L. E. Birdzell, chairman, Dr. J. O. Arneson, E. B. Klein, A. O. Schimanski.

MASONS PLAN CELEBRATION

Annual Past Master's Night Set For March 31

The 1924 annual Masonic Reunion of Bismarck lodge No. 5, celebrating Past Master's night, will be held on Monday, March 31, it is announced by lodge officers.

An elaborate banquet will be served, five candidates will receive the Master Mason degree, and unusual features are planned for the banquet, according to F. J. Grady, head of the lodge.

Masons from many surrounding towns are expected here to help in the celebration.

JOHNSON HAS SOUTH DAKOTA BY 2,000 LEAD

California Senator, with Returns Virtually Complete. Carries the State

REVERSES NO. DAKOTA

Sioax Falls, S. D., Mar. 28.—Reversing the result of the North Dakota primary of March 18, Senator Hiram Johnson of California defeated President Calvin Coolidge in Tuesday's primary for South Dakota's Republican presidential endorsement, according to unofficial returns compiled by newspapers.

The President was victorious in North Dakota by several thousand votes while Senator Johnson won out in South Dakota by nearly 2,000 majority, the unofficial returns indicated. Returns from 1,684 precincts of the state's 1,825 tabulated by three of the leading newspapers gave Senator Johnson 40,241 votes and President Calvin Coolidge 38,500 when compilation of figures ceased last night.

CARDINALS GET RED SILK HATS

Final Ceremonies for American Cardinals Completed

Rome, March 28.—The final ceremonies of elevating Archbishop Mundelein of Chicago and Archbishop Hayes of New York, to membership in the highest council of the holy Roman Catholic church took place yesterday in the right transept of the basilica of Saint Peter's when Pope Pius gave to them their broadbanded red silk hats, symbol of their new rank of cardinals.

The ceremonies were resplendent with medieval pageantry. Fully 10,000 persons attended the function. Americans formed a great majority of the throng.

This morning's solemn investiture of the red hat was merely a time honored custom, the same symbolically head piece being used for both the American prelates. The red hats which they actually will take back across seas with them were given them later this afternoon by special papal emissaries during semi-public ceremonies. The red hats never are actually worn, but will be taken back by the prelates and stored by their respective cathedrals, there to remain until the deaths of the cardinals when they will be ceremoniously taken down and placed over their tombs.

CONGRESSMAN'S MOTHER DIES

Cooperstown, N. D., Mar. 28.—The mother of Congressman J. H. Sinclair, Mr. Sinclair died Tuesday at Moorpark, Canada, and a sister, Mrs. Wm. Church, died at Pasadena, the next day. Both will be buried in Cooperstown, Sunday.

ATTORNEY-GENERAL IS TOLD TO QUIT; COMPLIES AND ASKS HE BE RELIEVED IMMEDIATELY

Letter of President Says That Position as Adviser to Him and as Attorney-General During Investigation Cannot Be Reconciled, and Therefore Asks Him to Retire From the Cabinet—Daugherty in Brief Reply Says He Quits Solely Out of Deference to Expressed Wishes of the President, and Would Quit Immediately.

Washington, Mar. 28.—(By the A. P.)—At the request of President Coolidge Attorney-General Daugherty today submitted his resignation effective at once.

The President's decision was based on a conviction that Mr. Daugherty could not give disinterested attention to his official duties while under the stress of the Senate inquiry into his conduct.

While disclaiming any intention to "prejudice" the issues raised in the investigation the President wrote Mr. Daugherty that his continuance in office must inevitably be a source of "ever increasing embarrassment."

In a letter of three terse sentences the Attorney-General replied that he was resigning "solely out of deference to your request."

The correspondence was made public at the White House without comment but at the Department of Justice Mr. Daugherty immediately prepared a statement setting forth again his side of the question.

FISH SPOUT FROM WELL

Fish from an artesian well! The unusual incident is reported here by K. O. Ahrlin of Rutland, N. D. He wrote that two fish, each about one and one-fourth inches, came out of the flowing well and were caught in a tub into which the water flows. Mr. Ahrlin has never heard of a similar incident.

DENIES KOTA WHEAT ALONE RECOMMENDED

Chairman of Agricultural Credit Corporation States That Body's Position

LOANS FOR NO. DAKOTA

Minneapolis, Minn., Mar. 28.—Denying reports that the Agricultural Credit corporation has recommended Kola wheat for North Dakota use and intends to finance purchase of its seed for widespread sowing, C. T. Jaffray, chairman of the corporation's directorate and executive committee announced that the corporation will finance Kola seed only for limited amounts in small areas.

Mr. Jaffray pointed out that the corporation's agricultural relief program calls for cooperation with agricultural experts, who have recommended Kola seed only in regions where rust has made impracticable the sowing of Marquis or Ruby wheat. Loans to provide funds for purchase of Kola seed were intended to apply only to such sections. Mr. Jaffray explained.

His statement follows: In reference to the Agricultural Credit corporation giving aid to the farmers of the Northwest in assisting in the distribution of good seed, this corporation does not in any way intend to recommend any particular kind of seed and any publicity given out that the corporation is specifically recommending Kola wheat as a general substitute for Marquis wheat is unwarranted. The agricultural authorities of the spring wheat seeds are the persons who ought to decide what seed farmers should be advised to grow, and the credit corporation is going to follow the recommendations of these authorities.

For Use Only in Limited Areas
In the transaction "Kola" recommended, by which the corporation was to loan some money to enable authorities to furnish Kola wheat, it was planned to serve only those regions where the ravage of rust during the past three years has made impracticable to grow the Marquis or Ruby wheat, and even in these regions where they have an early spring to allow early seeding.

The authorities are recommending the Marquis or Ruby be used on account of the greater returns received over that of Kola. Everyone realizes that Kola wheat is still in the experimental stage as to its economic value and therefore this seed will be financed for only limited amounts, and to be used in limited areas.

REBRON BRICK SELLING IN WIDENING TERRITORY

Hebron, N. D., March 27.—With a capacity of manufacturing more than 1,000,000 bricks a month, the Hebron Brick company of this city is gradually increasing its territory for sales which now goes as far east as Duluth and the twin cities and west to the Pacific coast. The company is making delivery of about 500,000 bricks to Seattle, Tacoma and Bremerton.

PUBLIC ASKED TO MEETING

All citizens are invited to attend the meeting to be held in the Association of Commerce rooms at 7:45 p. m. tonight under the auspices of local members of the capital tax standing commission. Interesting figures on taxes and methods of running local and state governments will be presented.

Found Lying in Snow in Railroad Cut Near Gladstone,
No. Dakota, Report Says

BELIEVED DEMENTED
Had Leaped From Fast Northern Pacific Train After Leaving Miles City

The young woman who leaped from Northern Pacific Train No. 2 Wednesday night between Miles City, Montana, and Hebron, North Dakota, was found about 11:30 o'clock this morning lying in the snow near Gladstone, North Dakota, 100 miles west of here in Stark county, according to information received by The Tribune.

The message said that a farmer found the young woman in a gully near the railroad track. He notified the railroad men at Gladstone and a section man went to get her and take her to Dickinson for medical aid.
She is believed to be demented.
The young woman, believed to be about 20 years old, admitted she jumped from the train through the window of the berth she occupied, the dispatch added, that she slept in a strawstack last night and started wandering again this morning. She was seriously ill from exposure, resulting from cold and wandering in the two inches of snow which had fallen over western North Dakota.
She refused to reveal her identity.

On Way To Chicago
The young woman was on her way from Seattle to Chicago. When the train left Miles City she retired for the night. Before the train reached Hebron the porter noticed the curtains of the berth moving in the wind and later discovered that the young woman was not in bed. The window was open.

Her clothing and luggage were in the car, and after trainmen had investigated a search throughout western North Dakota and eastern Montana along the right-of-way, her luggage was sent on to St. Paul. Section men were ordered by the Northern Pacific road to begin a search along the right-of-way, and this they did yesterday, but the search revealed no trace of the missing woman.

WAS UNCONSCIOUS
Dickinson, N. D., Mar. 28.—The unidentified girl who is believed to have fallen or jumped through a bulletin window from a Northern Pacific train sometime Wednesday night or Thursday morning was found today two miles east of Gladstone. She was unconscious when found.

Sheriff Dowling, H. L. Duncan, commander of the vessel, but now divisional prohibition chief for Florida and Porto Rico, and members of the crew got off the Russ before she went down, but the dory in which they were attempting to reach shore capsized.

For two hours the officers and members of the crew, who were equipped with life preservers, were battered about by the waves until resued by a pilot boat. Three members of the crew were burned, one seriously.

Failure of the North Dakota State Taxpayers Association will not hatter the work of that association in exercising its force for the reduction of taxes throughout the state. A. L.
Martin of Sentinel Butte, president of the association, declared before returning to his home, Mr. Martin came here yesterday expecting to receive in the mails sufficient petitions to place on the ballot in June an initiative measure providing for a 25 per cent reduction in taxes, with conditions excluding bond issues and other standing debts on which interest and sinking fund levies must be made and permitting districts to minimize the cut to 10 percent by a vote.

"I had about 9,000 signatures on petitions and 10,000 were required," said Mr. Martin, "and therefore could not file the petitions. The death of Mr. Gunderson, who was the president of our association, disorganized the work, the drawing of the bill and preparation of petitions required time and we were able to get the petitions to the public hearing, 12 days ago, on the 25th of March. The people signed the petitions readily when they were presented and I feel safe in saying that if we had had another week to work we could have had 15,000 names on petitions without any trouble."

November Uncertain
Whether the association will seek to initiate the law at the November election is a question, Mr. Martin said. A meeting of the taxpayers' organization will be held in the near future, he said.

"We propose to perfect an organization in every county in the state," said Mr. Martin. There is very great interest being shown in the matter. We feel that levies this year in the state will be reduced some millions of dollars, and that the efforts of our association counted somewhat to this end.

"I believe a really conscientious effort is being made by local boards all over the state, including school boards, to reduce taxes, and I feel that much good will come from the wide-spread discussion."

Whether Mr. Martin will continue as president of the body is not determined, he said. He succeeded J.
G. Gunderson, being vice-president at the time of Mr. Gunderson's death, but because of business interests in Sentinel Butte he does not have a great deal of time to give to the organization. He explained that one of the purposes of the organization had been to arouse interest in the matter of taxes, and he believes this has been accomplished.

Ends Controversy
The failure to file the petitions will remove a discussion that has prevailed educational circles for several months, over since the Gunderson controversy.

HAYS ORDERED CALLED AGAIN TO OIL PROBE

Former Chairman of Republican National Committee To be Summoned Again

WALSH'S BROTHER IS ON Testifies Before Oil Committee After Subpoena was Issued For Spencer

Washington, Mar. 28.—(By the A.
P.)—Will H. Hays, former chairman of the Republican national committee, will be recalled before the oil committee.

The request for his subpoena was made by Senator Walsh, the committee prosecutor, whose brother John Walsh, a Washington attorney, was called in today's hearing as the first witness.

Senator Walsh wanted to question Hays regarding a telegram he sent from Sullivan, Indiana, which Chairman Ladd read into the record. The telegram said that "never at any time for any purpose did I receive from Jake Hamon $25,000 or any other sum directly or indirectly, personally or on behalf of the Republican national committee or otherwise."

At Jennings, the former train robber, testified yesterday that Hamon had told him of a payment of $25,000 to Hays.

John Walsh was subpoenaed yesterday at the instance of Senator Spencer, Republican, Missouri, and he insisted that he be heard today. Senator Spencer said he was not ready but after Senator Walsh said his brother's business had been under investigation and the fact that he had been left subpoenaed left him under suspicion Walsh took the stand.

GOOD ROADS TO BE TOPIC FOR FORUM DINNER

Association of Commerce
Members Will Gather Next Wednesday Night

A Forum Dinner will be given by the Association of Commerce at the McKenzie hotel on the night of April 2, it was announced today.

"Reserve Wednesday, April 2, as Association night," says a message which will go out to all members tomorrow.
There will be a good program, with W. G. Black, chief engineer of the highway commission; A. D. Mc-Kinnon, project engineer and T. R.
Atkinson, county surveyor, on the program. There will also be discussion on subjects of local interest.
Scott Cameron will preside at the Forum Dinner, and Spencer Boise will lead in community singing. Other special music is planned to make it an enjoyable night.

The arrangements are in charge of Judge L. E. Birdzell, chairman, Dr.
J. O. Carson, E. B. Klein, A. O.
Schimansky.

MASONS PLAN CELEBRATION

Annual Past Master's Night
Set For March 31

The 1924 annual Masonic Reunion of Bismarck lodge No. 5, celebrating Past Master's night, will be held on Monday, March 31, it is announced by lodge officers.

An elaborate banquet will be served, five candidates will receive the Master Mason degree, and unusual "stunts" are planned for the banquet, according to F. J. Grady, head of the lodge.

Masons from many surrounding towns are expected here to help in the celebration.

KLAN WARNED
Rock Rapids, Iowa, March 28.—The Ku Klux Klan was warned to keep out of Rock Rapids in a resolution adopted by the Kiwanis club here today by a vote of 4 to 1. Several speeches were made against the Klan before the resolution was offered.

STORM DOESN'T STOP ELKS FROM TURNING OUT FOR THEIR "MOVING BEE"

The Elks simply couldn't let a little storm bother them. They came out they stay out. They got today as moving day, together with the U. C. T., and move they did.

About 30 Elks and U. C. T. members turned out to help unload furniture and place it in the new club rooms in the Hinkley block on Fourth street. All hands were eager to help the furniture into the hall, newly decorated.

RESIGNS

ATTY. GENERAL DAUGHERTY
The Attorney-General of the United States, Columbus, Ohio lawyer, campaign manager for the late President Harding, Attorney-General and central figure in the Senate investigation, who was ousted by President Coolidge.

JOHNSON HAS SOUTH DAKOTA BY 2,000 LEAD

California Senator, with Returns Virtually Complete, Carries the State

REVERSES NO. DAKOTA

Sioux Falls, S. D., Mar. 28.—Reversing the result of the North Dakota primary of March 18, Senator Hiram Johnson of California defeated
President Calvin Coolidge in Tuesday's primary for South Dakota's Republican presidential endorsement, according to unofficial returns compiled by newspapers.

The President was victorious in North Dakota by several thousand votes while Senator Johnson won out in South Dakota by nearly 2,000 majority. Returns from 1,684 precincts of the state's 1,825 tabulated by three of the leading newspapers gave Senator Johnson 40,243 votes and President Calvin Coolidge 38,500 when compilation of figures ceased last night.

CARDINALS GET RED SILK HATS

Final Ceremonies for American Cardinals Completed

Rome, March 28.—The final ceremonies of elevating Archbishop Mundelein of Chicago and Archbishop Hayes of New York, to membership in the highest council of the holy Roman Catholic church took place yesterday in the right transept of the basilica of Saint Peter, when Pope Pius gave to them their broadmed red silk hats, symbolic of their new rank of cardinals.

The ceremonies were resplendent with medieval pageantry. Fully 10, 000 persons attended the function.
Americans formed a great majority of the throng.

This morning's solemn investiture of the red hat was merely a time honored custom, the same symbolic head piece being used for both the American prelates. The red hats which they actually will take back across seas with them, were given them later this afternoon by special papal emissaries, during semi-public ceremonies. The red hats never are actually worn, but will be taken back by the prelates and suspended by golden wires over the high altars in their respective cathedrals, there to remain until the deaths of the cardinals, when they will be ceremoniously taken down and placed over their tombs.

CONGRESSMAN'S MOTHER DIES
Cooperstown, N. D., Mar. 28.—The mother of Congressman J. H. Sinclair, Mrs. D. Sinclair, died Tuesday at Moosejaw, Canada, and a sister, Mrs. Wm. Church, died at Pasadena, the next day. Both will be buried in Cooperstown Sunday.

ATTORNEY-GENERAL IS TOLD TO QUIT; COMPLIES AND ASKS HE BE RELIEVED IMMEDIATELY

Letter of President Says That Position as Adviser to Him and as Attorney-General During Investigation Cannot be Reconciled, and Therefore Asks Him to Retire From the Cabinet—Daugherty in Brief Reply Says He Quits Solely Out of Deference to Expressed Wishes of the President, and Would Quit Immediately.

Washington, Mar. 28.—(By the A. P.)—At the request of President Coolidge Attorney-General Daugherty today submitted his resignation effective at once.

The President's decision was based on a conviction that Mr. Daugherty could not give disinterested attention to his official duties while under the stress of the Senate inquiry into his conduct.

While disclaiming any intention to "prejudice" the issues raised in the investigation the President wrote Mr. Daugherty that his continuance in office must inevitably be a source of "ever increasing embarrassment."

In a letter of three terse sentences the Attorney-General replied that he was resigning "solely out of deference to your request."

The correspondence was made public at the White House without comment but at the Department of Justice Mr.
Daugherty immediately prepared a statement setting forth again his side of the question.

FISH SPOUT FROM WELL

Fish from an artesian well!
The unusual incident is reported here by K. O. Ahrlin of Rutland, N. D. He wrote that two fish, each about one and one-fourth inches, came out of the flowing well and were caught in a tub into which the water flows.
Mr. Ahrlin has never heard of a similar incident.

DENIES KOTA WHEAT ALONE RECOMMENDED

Chairman of Agricultural Credit Corporation States
• That Body's Position

LOANS FOR NO. DAKOTA

Minneapolis, Minn., Mar. 28.—Denying reports that the Agricultural Credit corporation has recommended Kota wheat for North Dakota use and intends to finance purchase of its seed for widespread sowing, C. T.
Jaffray, chairman of the corporation's directorate and executive committee announced that the corporation will finance Kota seed only for limited amounts in small areas.

Mr. Jaffray pointed out that the corporation's agricultural relief program calls for cooperation with agronomic experts, who have recommended Kota seeding only in regions where rust has made impracticable the sowing of Marquis or Ruby wheat. Loans to provide funds for purchase of Kota seed were intended to apply only to such sections, Mr.
Jaffray explained.

Jaffray's Statement.
His statement followed:
"In reference to the Agricultural Credit corporation giving aid to the farmers of the Northwest by assisting in the distribution of good seed, this corporation does not in any way intend to recommend any particular kind of seed and any publicity given out that the corporation is specifically recommending Kota wheat as a general substitute for Marquis wheat is not warranted. The agronomic authorities of the spring wheat seed are the persons who ought to decide what seed farmers should be advised to grow, and the credit corporation is going to follow the recommendations of these authorities."

For Use Only in Limited Areas.
"In the transaction lately consummated, by which the corporation was to loan some money to enable authorities to furnish Kota wheat, it was planned to serve only those regions where the ravage of rust during the past three years has made it impracticable to grow the Marquis or Ruby wheat, and even in these regions where they have an early spring to allow early seeding, the authorities are recommending that Marquis or Ruby be used on account of the greater returns received over that of Kota."

"Everyone realizes that Kota wheat is still in the experimental stage as to its economic value and therefore this seed will be financed for only limited amounts, and to be used in limited areas."

HEBRON BRICK SELLING IN WIDENING TERRITORY
Hebron, N. D., March 27.—With a capacity of manufacturing more than 1,000,000 bricks a month, the Hebron
Brick company of this city is gradually increasing its territory for sales which now goes as far east as Duluth and the twin cities and west to the Pacific coast. The company is making delivery of about 500,000 face brick to Seattle, Tacoma and Bremerton.

President's Letter
President Coolidge's letter to the Attorney-General requesting his resignation was written under date of March 27. It follows:

"My dear Mr. Attorney-General:
"Since my conference with you I have examined the proposed reply you suggest making to the demand that you furnish the committee investigating the Department of Justice with files from that Department relating to litigation and to the Bureau of Investigation. You represent to me and to the committee in your letter that it would not be compatible with the public interest to comply with the demand and conclude your letter with a statement that I approve that position."

"Certainly I approve the well established principle that departments should not give out information or documents where such a course would be detrimental to the public interest and this principle is always peculiarly applicable to your department which has such an intimate relation to the administration of justice. But you will readily perceive that I am unable to form an independent judgment in this instance without a long and intricate investigation of voluminous papers which I cannot personally make and so I should be compelled to follow the usual practice in such cases and rely upon your advice as Attorney-General and head of the Department of Justice."

"But you will see at once that the committee is investigating your personal conduct and hence you have become an interested party and the committee wants these papers because of a claim that they disclose your personal conduct of the department.
Assuming that the request of the committee is appropriately limited to designated files still the question will always be the same. In view of the fact that the inquiry relates to your personal conduct you are not in a position to give to me what would be disinterested advice as to the public interest."

Positions In Conflict
"You have a personal interest in this investigation which is being made of the conduct of yourself and your office which may be in conflict with your official interest as the Attorney-General. I am not questioning your fairness or integrity. I am merely reciting the fact that you are placed in two positions, one, your personal interest and the other your office of Attorney-General which may be in conflict."

"How can I satisfy a request for action in matters of this nature on the ground that you as Attorney-General advise against it when you as the individual against whom the inquiry is directed necessarily has a personal interest in it? I do not see how you can be acting for yourself in your own defense in this matter and at the same time and on the same question acting as my adviser as Attorney-General."

"These two positions are incompatible and cannot be reconciled. I am sure you will see that it is necessary for me to have the advice of a disinterested Attorney-General in order that I may discharge the duties of my office in this and other matters. I feel certain that you will know how deeply I regret that this situation has arisen. It only illustrates the difficulties which are constantly recurring with ever increasing embarrassment and your inability to perform satisfactorily the duties of Attorney-General under present conditions."

"You will readily understand that it is not now my intention to prejudice the issues which remain to be

BETTER HOMES AIM OF NATION-WIDE Drive Headed by Prominent Women; Ownership for Wage-Earners Urged

To promote better homes throughout the United States for families of small incomes that must make both ends meet is one of the outstanding aims of Better Homes in America, recently incorporated as a national educational institution, with Herbert Hoover, Secretary of Commerce, as president, and James Ford, national housing specialist, as executive director.

Associated with the organization in its effort to make attractive homes available for wage-earners and for families of rural sections, as well as for those of cities and towns, are some of the best-known women of the United States. Dr. Louise Stanley, chief of the new Bureau of Home Economics of the U. S. Department of Agriculture, was recently appointed a member of the advisory council of Better Homes in America. Miss Lida Hafford, Director of Headquarters of the General Federation of Women's Clubs, has given notable service as a member of the advisory council since the inception of the Better Homes in America movement. Mrs. W. C. Martin, Chairman of the Women's Division of the Federation of Farm and Home Bureaus, and Mrs. Charles Schuttler, former chairman, both members of the advisory council of Better Homes in America, are particularly interested in the improvement of rural homes.

May 11-18 has been set aside as Better Homes week, and in these seven days hundreds of communities in every part of the nation will carry on Better Homes demonstrations, as a vivid means of educating the public in methods of home betterment. Demonstration homes this year will feature such homes as are available for families of modest means.
Better kitchen contests, home beautification contests, demonstrations of labor-saving house-hold equipment, and exhibitions of

KING SHAKEN IN COLLISION

Naples, Italy, March 28.—King Victor Emmanuel was badly shaken up by the derailment of a train on which he was a passenger from Rome. The train reached Naples this morning after some delay.

Was skeptical of Kellogg's Bran until it gave him back his health

Naturally Mr. Carter—whose letter follows—was skeptical. He had tried practically everything for the relief of constipation. All had failed. But Kellogg's Bran brought him permanent relief, just as it has done for thousands of others. Read his letter:

"I am 43 years old, and have been for years a great sufferer from constipation. I had to resign a clerical position because of rushes of blood to my head, some of which caused me to fall to the ground. I took an outdoor laboring job and tried for the first time, skeptically I admit, your Krumble Bran. The result has been wonderful. I began to be normal after I had been on the Bran about three days. No more enemas, no more Old Dr. Sassafras Pills, no more salts by the Temperature and rainfall records in the United States have been kept for more than 100 years in only a few localities.

Kellogg's Bran, cooked and krumbled, does not irritate the intestines like drugs and pills. It acts exactly as nature acts. Eaten regularly, it is guaranteed to relieve permanently the most chronic case of constipation, or your grocer will return your money.

You will like the exclusive, nut-like flavor of Kellogg's Bran, cooked and krumbled. Eat two tablespoonsful daily—in chronic cases with every meal. Eat it with milk or cream and in the recipes on every package sold by all grocers. Made in Battle Creek.

MARKET NEWS

WHEAT FALLS AT THE CLOSE

Opening Gains in Trading in Chicago Wiped Out

Chicago, Mar. 28.—Renewed liquidation on the part of holders of corn, wheat and oats resulted in a material fresh setback of values after rising at the opening. Wheat closed 1/2 cent lower, May $1.00 1/2, to $1.00 1/4, and July $1.02 1/2, to $1.02 1/4. In the last half of the day gains were more than wiped out, sellers finding the market bare of support except when May neared the dollar mark.

Chicago, March 28.—Wheat and oats had an upturn in grain prices today during the early dealings. Previous sellers were the chief buyers. A forecast of colder weather with rain was the chief apparent factor in bringing about a reversal of position by traders who had been active sellers. Wheat opening prices which varied from 1-8 cent decline to an equal advance with May $1.02 1/2 to $1.01 3/4 and July $1.02 1/2 to $1.02 1/4 were followed by moderate gains all around.

MINNEAPOLIS FLOUR.

John K. Connor, blind cap salesman and newspaper vendor in New Orleans, gave a lecture one day at the Mississippi School for the Blind. He told how he, though sightless, had won his fight. After his talk, he confided to an instructor how mightily lonely he was. The instructor gave him the names of several blind pupils to whom he might write. One was Katie Blacklock of Bethel, Miss. Now John and Katie have a little "love nest" in New Orleans. They're spending their honeymoon there.

CONGRESSMAN CHARGED WITH LIQUOR FRAUD

Former Deputy Commissioner of Internal Revenue Also Is Indicted.

OTHERS ARE CHARGED

Washington, March 28.—Indictments charging Representative John W. Langley, Republican, Kentucky; Millard F. West, a former deputy commissioner of internal revenue, and four others with conspiracy to interfere with the operations of the government, were returned here by a federal grand jury.

Langley alone was named in one indictment, another was against him, Russell M. Sackett, a prohibition agent in Pennsylvania, Ben L. McGehee, and Harry Sattler, co-partners, trading as the Union Drug company, of Pittsburgh, and Sidney Reis, described as a purveyor of liquors in large quantities.

Heavy Punishment.—The conspiracy section of the criminal code prescribes punishment of not more than two years imprisonment, or a fine of not more than $10,000, or both.

Langley, who is chairman of the house public buildings and grounds committee, is serving his ninth term in congress. He is said to have been one of the "two members of congress" referred to in the report of the Chicago grand jury's bureau investigated alleged bribery charges against him. He was charged in testimony with accepting bribes for improper use of official influence.

On the floor of the house, Langley and Representative Zihlman, Republican, Maryland, recently declared they had unofficial information that the Chicago grand jury's report was directed at them. Both protested their innocence of any wrong doing and demanded immediate investigation of the charges. No mention of Zihlman was made in today's grand jury report.

Refers To Reports.—Reference, however, was made in the report to John E. Krumer, former prohibition commissioner, Elvas H. Mortimer, who was star witness before the Chicago grand jury, Arthur McKinn, Ralph E. Clepper, Herman Geltscher, and Donald J. Delaney. All six, the grand jury charged, were involved in the conspiracy, but were not indicted because they testified before it.

KNOCKED DOWN BY COWS; HURT

Linton, N. D., March 28.—Mrs. George Schmidt of Hague, mother of Martin Schmidt of Linton, was injured in a peculiar manner at her home at Hague.

She was on her way down town, and as she reached the alley, in the rear of her residence, three or four cows emerged on the run, knocking her down and rendering her unconscious for some time.

RAICH OFFER IS REFUSED

Creditors Decline to Accept 10 Per Cent Settlement

A majority of the creditors of Sam Raich, Ashley merchant, rejected his offer for a composition of claims on a basis of a 10 percent cash payment, at the conclusion of the hearing before Referee in Bankruptcy, Benton Baker, in the federal court rooms last night. Raich, as defendant in an involuntary petition in bankruptcy, has 10 days in which to reply after the order rejecting the offer, after which the referee will adjudicate the case.

Raich is interested in several stores in southern North Dakota and two in South Dakota.

Filed Petition.—E. H. Weber, Bismarck, has filed an involuntary petition in bankruptcy in the federal court at Fargo. He listed assets of $41,232.00 and liabilities of $38,000.86 in his petition. Mr. Weber operated the Wellworth store on Main street.

MARCH'S CHANGEABLE WEATHER.—One may expect many changes in weather in March, and should be prepared for coughs and colds. The slight cold, if neglected, may develop into a serious illness. ## OLD IDEAS STICK LIKE GLUE

The first 50 Packard autos were equipped with "whip-sockets on the dashboards." Packard engineers remonstrated with the coach builder who had the contract to make the first 50 bodies. But for years he had made carriage bodies, and he insisted on putting whip-sockets on the autos.

This incident is typical of all human progress.

The first railroad passenger cars looked like stagecoaches. The first autos looked like horse-drawn vehicles. No matter how revolutionary a new idea may be, when people put it to practical use they invariably insist on retaining some feature of the old device or system that is replaced by the new.

So, quite naturally, the airplane is a copy of birds and insects, nature's "flying machines." Man couldn't be blamed for copying them. But the Ultimate Airplane may be an entirely different looking affair.

The human tendency, to attach a specimen of the old to new things, has a simple psychological explanation. People simply have confidence in old tried-out devices, and they cling to them as a sort of life preserver in case the new outfit doesn't work.

Probably the builder of the first Packard auto bodies feared they would break down and have to be towed home by a horse. In that event, a whip-socket wouldn't be a bad idea.

Radio, the most sensational mechanical development of recent years, changes swiftly. A new set comes out. You start to make it—and are apt to find it replaced by something better before you finish soldering the wires. Radio changes faster than women's styles, far faster. There has never in history been anything that has changed so rapidly—that has revealed a public tendency to discard the old and adopt the new without regret or suspicion.

This means that people are losing their chronic respect for old things. They are willing to take a chance and throw old devices to the ash-heap as soon as something better appears.

This tendency may revolutionize human thought and even systems of economics. When the American colonies broke away from the old country and set up a republic in government, they still retained the king-and-subject idea in that more important field, economics. The boss in business, however, is gradually being changed by evolution into a president of a business republic instead of monarch of his organization.

RUSS

Two important developments in Russia indicate the Bolsheviks expect to remain on the job indefinitely.

They issue orders to remove the word "Russia" from all maps and documents. There's no longer any such country as Russia. Instead, it's the Federation of Soviet Republics.

Financiers say the Reds have abandoned hope of ever reviving the value of the ruble. The ruble printing presses have been stored in the national museum. A new currency, silver coins, is being put into circulation. Rulers have confidence in their ability to hold their jobs when they, in effect, repudiate their own money.

YOU

Half a ton of blood flows through your heart every hour, says Dr. Henderson, lecturing at Harvard Medical School.

This is a terrific amount of work for a delicate pump. It is obvious that life can be prolonged and health improved by getting plenty of sleep and lying down for 20 minutes or so in mid-day and early evening. When standing, our hearts pump blood the full height of the body. When reclining, strain is taken off the pump, blood flows like water through horizontal pipes.

SUICIDE

Germany announces that 5106 of her soldiers committed suicide during the World War.

That is a very low rate—much fewer than the number that would have taken their lives if the war years had been peaceful.

At least 10,000 Americans a year commit suicide. What irony, that people are more hopeful in war than peace!

On the other hand, there must have been thousands of Germans who killed themselves but were recorded as victims of enemy bullets.

SOONER

The Senate has adopted the joint resolution for a constitutional amendment to have presidents inaugurated third Monday in January and Congress take office first Monday in January after election.

It's a sensible idea. Most important thing for the public to keep in mind is that a political party by our present system is free to tinker with the laws for several months after voters have repudiated it and elected the other party to power. That's a poor way to play political baseball.

JOBS

New wonders of science, latest movie sensations—these are interesting. But, after all, to the average man the most important matter is jobs—plenty of work.

The news along this line is good. Uncle Sam's Department of Labor checks up and finds that the number on the pay roll of manufacturing concerns increased better than 1 per cent in February. That's not a lot, to be sure. But it's the first general gains since last June. Times are looking better.

A giant dirigible will start from Germany for the United States this spring, perhaps followed by an enormous cargo ship.

WHO FOR VICE PRESIDENT?

The day when the nomination for Vice-President was considered of minor importance has gone. The death of Mr. Harding and the succession of Mr. Coolidge to the Presidency demonstrated the vital importance of the Vice-Presidency in a way that the American people are not likely soon to forget.

When it was recalled that second place on the ticket had been offered by the winning combination in the Chicago convention of 1920 to Senator Hiram Johnson of California and been by him refused, there was thankfulness in many quarters that the convention had had the wisdom to name Mr. Coolidge.

The signs now point to the independent candidacy of Senator La Follette for President with the endorsement of the new "third party" forces. It is generally recognized that this move may result in preventing a majority selection by the electoral college. La Follette, it is admitted, may carry enough states in the middle west to prevent either the Republican or Democratic candidate from having a majority of the electoral votes.

That would throw the election of President into the present House and of Vice-President into the Senate. The House would be restricted in voting to the three highest candidates on the electoral roll, and would vote by states. This again would produce a deadlock, with neither Republicans or Democrats having the majority in enough state delegations to name the President. The Twelfth Amendment to the Constitution provides for this contingency in a peculiar way. If the House does not by March 4 name a President, the Vice-President shall act as President, as in the case of death or other constitutional disability of the President.

But the Senate in electing the Vice-President is restricted to the two highest names on the electoral college list. This variation from the formula prescribed for the House would doubtless prevent a deadlock. Senators would be obliged to choose between the Republican candidate and the Democratic candidate for Vice-President. Except in the improbable event of a tie vote, there would be an election, and on March 4 the man elected would, if the House was still deadlocked, succeed to the Presidency.

These are certainly possibilities, and they merit careful consideration. They point to the necessity for the use of good judgment in the two great national conventions. The Republican ticket this year, quite aside from the always-present possibility of succession to the Presidency by the death of the incumbent, may prove of vital importance.

Minneapolis Tribune.

ADVENTURE OF THE TWINS
BY OLIVE ROBERTS BARTON

One day Miss Pithers, the yarn lady in Doofhufny Lane, was milking her cow, called the cow-that-turned-its-head.

And while she was sitting there on her little stool, along came a curly black puppy that went "yip, yip," as he hoped.

And before the good lady could run for the house the black puppy not only went "yip, yip," but nipped, and catching an end of one of her strings in his teeth, he pulled and pulled until half of her skirt was unraveled!

At that Miss Pithers stopped milking and faintly and the cow turned its head and saw the black curly puppy and said "moo" at him and scared him away.

The puppy dog went yip yip, and hopped on and nearly but not quite forgot about the whole business.

Pretty soon he met the patent leather cat striding along and importantly stroking his whiskers.

"Yip, yip," barked the pup, trying to attract attention.

"Get out of my way, sir," ordered the cat. "Children should be seen and not heard!"

The black puppy stopped yipping at such an insult. "Humph!" he barked. "Children indeed! Why all you can eat is a weenty twenty mouse, and I just finished eating half of a yarn lady. I'm a wild beast, I am."

"Well, well!" cried the cat with more respect in his voice. "You don't look so savage. Half a yarn lady, indeed! Personally I haven't cared for yarn since I was a kitten. Good-day, sir."

The curly black puppy looked after him and went, "Yip, yip! That fetched him, I guess he found that I amounted to something after all." And he hopped on.

Pretty soon he met the "canton-flannel monkey."

"You can't do this," declared the monkey, jumping up a tree and hanging by his tail, head down.

"My goodness! That's nothing! I just finished eating a whole yarn lady," declared the pup. "Gobbled her up just like that. I'm too full for climbing."

"The idea! You don't look so fierce," said the monkey. "I beg your pardon, sir!"

The curly black puppy noticed the "sir" and also that the canton-flannel monkey stayed up the tree and didn't come down while he was there. He liked that and went on down the road thinking, "What a great fellow am I!"

And so he went along telling people about his fierceness, each time adding to his story, until he met Nancy and Nick and Mister Fuzz Wuzz. And by that time he had eaten not only poor Miss Pithers and her cow, but the tiger and half the zoo.

Suddenly Nancy laughed. "Look behind you, Mister Hungry," she cried.

And there was Miss Pithers, the yarn lady, all neatly mended and good as new.

"Some people have imaginations."

Too Much Competition

like a rubber band!" declared Mister Fuzz Wuzz steadily. "I suppose that what you had for breakfast was a saucer of milk."

The puppy was so mortified he didn't know where to look. "I—I guess I must have been mistaken!" he said meekly and hopped off to hide.

MANDAN NEWS

Mandan Debaters Meet Bowman

Grand Forks, March 28.—The Third round of the annual state high school debate league was finished Saturday and pairings have been made for the fourth round which is to be completed April 12, according to an announcement by Prof. A. H. Yoder of the state university, who is in charge of the league. There are seven schools remaining in the fourth round, he said.

The fifth round in which four schools will compete, will be completed by May 3, and the state finals will be held at the state university May 18.

Pairing for the fourth round area: Bowman-Mandan; Milnor-Wimbledon; Rugby-Flaxton. Cavalier was given a bye. In the third round Mandan won from Steele, Milnor from Valley City, Rugby from Souris, Flaxton from Mohall, and Cavalier from Mayville. Bowman and Wimbledon had byes in the third round.

BONUS BILL IS IGNORED

SUBSTITUTE MAY PASS THE SENATE
This expert editor's bonus bill has been ignored by a lot of congressmen who never crawled up inside a helmet so far that only their feet stuck out to be shot at, and who never slept like a pretzel in a French box car.

Perhaps the substitute now before the Senate is a better bill, but this editor looks at it with the eye of a soldier. If the Senate fails to pass the present bill all veterans should write their congressmen to take up the too-long-ignored Tom Sims bill.

The Tom Sims bill is simple and uses no tax money. The longer a man served in the army the more he will collect under the Tom Sims bill. Stated in a few words, the bill is as follows: Give all war veterans the right to shoot craps with loaded dice and they will collect their own bonus.

In the afternoon Mrs. Minor suggested having tea in the woods, and they all walked—single file—five miles to drink their tea and eat their cakes (Larsing carrying the paraphernalia) in a pine grove on the summit of a hill, and then walked back again, clamoring for supper.

Mary had been monopolized by Scores and Bolitor occasionally vouchsafing Clavering a glance. During the evening they were all too pleasantly tired and replete to dance or to play the charades they had planned, but lay about comfortably, listening to a concert of alternate arias and jazz. Clavering did not have a word alone with Mary. She sat on one of the divans between Gora and Todd, while Scores lay on the floor at her feet, his head on a cushion, one foot waving over a lifted knee, the perfect picture of the contented playboy. They kept up a continuous murmur, punctuated with gales of laughter. Clavering had sulkily taken a chair beside Babbette Gold, whose metallic humor sometimes amused him, but she went sound asleep before his eyes, and he could only gaze into the fire and console himself with visions of a week hence, when these cursed people had gone and he was the most fortunate man on earth.

His room was downstairs next to Mr. Dinwiddle's, and he made up his mind to let himself out softly at midnight, throw pebbles at her window and whisper to her as she sneaked from her casement. It was a scene that if introduced into a modern play would have driven him from the theatre and tipped his pen with vitriol next morning, but it appealed to him, somehow, as a fitting episode in his own high romance. But he was asleep before his head touched the pillow, and did not lift an eyelash until the first bell roused him at seven o'clock. Then, however, he lay for some time thinking, soberly.

He put his arm around her firmly. "I am not going to pretend any further," he said. "It is too big for that. And you have never been anything but Mary Ogden to me, except, perhaps, on that night I have practically dismissed from my mind. I called you Mary-Ogden to myself until I learned your new name, and I don't think that name has ever come into my thoughts of you. And although you slipped on another skin with it you were always Mary Ogden underneath. You needed a new name for your new role, but like any actress on the stage, it had nothing to do with your indestructible personality. I say this because I want you to understand that although I cannot play up to your little comedy any longer and go through the forms of wooing you as if you were a girl—I shouldn't like you half as well if you were—I do not think of you or wish you to think of yourself as anything but Mary Ogden."

He paused a moment, and she slipped her arm about him and they walked on through the wood.

"I cannot go on with it because these days up here that we can spend almost altogether alone, if we will, are too sacred to waste on an amusing but futile game. Do you realize that we do not know each other very well? I sometimes wonder if you know me at all. From the time I fell in love with you until you promised to marry me, I was at one sort of fever-pitch, and when I got to work on the play I was at another. No writer while exercising an abnormal faculty is quite sane. His brain is several pitches above normal and his nerves are like hot taut wires that hum like the devil. If this were not the case he would not be an imaginative writer at all. But he certainly is in no condition to reveal himself to a woman. I have made wild and sporadic love to you—sporadic is the word, for between my work and your friends, we have had little time together—and I don't think I have ever taken you in my arms with the feeling that you were the woman I loved, not merely the woman I desired. And I believe that I love you ever more than I desire you. You are all that, but so much—so much—more."

She had fixed her startled eyes on him, but he did not turn his head.

"There has always been a lot of talk about the soul. Sentimentalists wallow in the word, and—ists deride it. What it really is I do not pretend to know. Probably as good a word as any—and certainly a very mellifluous word—for some obscure chemical combination of finer essence than the obvious material part of us, that craves a foretaste of immortality while we are still mortal. Perhaps we are descended from the gods after all, and unless we listen when they whisper in this unexplicable part of our being, we find only a miserable substitute for happiness, and love turns to hate. Whatever it is that golden essence demands, I have found it in you, and it circumstances had been different I should have known it long ago."

DELPHIAN MEETING
The Delphian Chapter held a very interesting meeting this morning under the leadership of Miss Carrie Haugen. The morning's work was devoted to a study of Greek Mythology. Miss Haugen very ably traced the effect of the early Greek Mythology upon the present modern day civilization, in art, poetry and literature. Mrs. C. C. Converse, Mrs. F. A. Knowles, Mrs. C. F. Moody, Mrs. R. S. Towne, Lucile Dahl, Mrs. George Ebert and Miss Bertha Palmer presented the history of the most important of the Greek Gods and their effect upon the Grecian civilization in the nation's early history. Roll call followed the meeting with important readings upon the day's lesson.

ENTERTAIN FOR THE FADDENS
A shower was given in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Victor Fadden at the apartments of Mr. and Mrs. Murphy. Sixteen guests were present and Mah Jongg was enjoyed during the evening. A pretty color scheme of pink and white was employed effectively. Refreshments were served following the game. It will be remembered Mr. and Mrs. Fadden were married early in January.

TO PRESENT PUPILS IN PROGRAM
Mrs. R. W. Henderson will present her pupils in a program of dancing, Friday evening, April 4, at the Auditorium of the Indian School. The public is cordially invited to attend this program.

FOOD SALE
The Ladies Aid Society of the First Lutheran church will hold a food sale at Sorenson's Hardware store on Main street, Saturday afternoon, March 29. All kinds of fancy cakes and breads will be for sale.

RETURNS HOME
F. J. Traynor of Devils Lake returned to his home yesterday, stopping off in Fargo to transact business after attending to business affairs in this city.

HERE FROM GOODRICH
Adam Mutscher, who is proprietor of a general store in Goodrich is in the city attending to business affairs for a few days.

HERE FROM FARGO
G. E. Churchill, C. A. Mosher, and W. W. Fuller of Fargo were in the city on business yesterday.

CABLEGRAM FROM ALICE HAMILTON TO LESLIE PRESCOTT
I am going to marry Karl Whitney. His engagement gift was a string of pearls longer and more beautiful than yours. I am very happy.
ALICE.
Cablegram from Mrs. Hamilton to Leslie Prescott
Alice and Karl are to be married as soon as we arrive home. We are starting after a short stay in Paris to buy Alice's trousseau. Of course your father and I approve. We always wanted Karl in the family.
MOTHER.
Letter from Paula Perier to Leslie Prescott
MY DEAR MRS. PRESCOTT:
Will you allow me to express my sincere gratitude to you for inviting me to your home. I hope to have one myself as soon as I return to Hollywood, and your gracious presence in your own home made me wish I could give the same impression of welcome to the stranger who came within my gates.
You will probably never know how much your attendance at my public reception meant to me. I do not know if your husband has told you that once upon a time a very young girl, I lived in your city. I had my own living to earn and as I was called beautiful the earning of that living was peculiarly hard. Women were said to envy me, and men pursued me. I could not help but smile quietly to myself on that afternoon as I saw so many of the society people of Albany come up to shake my hand, and I knew that many of these women had said most unkind things about me when I was there and needed their help and understanding much more than I do now.
You, my dear Mrs. Prescott, were not one of these. I am sure you never could be unkind to any woman who through force of circumstances, perhaps, was not as fortunate as you.
I had intended to write you a formal note, but I find I can never express myself formally as I feel much. But should I write reams to you I can never tell you how happy you made me by letting me come to your home, hold that blessed baby in my arms, and talk to you as woman to woman.
Believe me, my dear Mrs. Prescott, I am in your debt always, and nothing would give me so much pleasure as to be able to pay you for both your conscious and unconscious kindness.
Sincerely yours,
PAULA PERIER.

AT THE MOVIES
CAPITOL.
In "Judgment of the Storm," the first film production of the Palmer Photoplay Corporation, appears the man who, since playing opposite Mary Pickford in her recent version of "Tess of the Storm-Country," has become the world's first matinee idol. The Latin type, represented by Valentino, has given away to a straight American type in Lloyd Hughes, and it is reported that men admire this "rising star" as well as women. He followed his part opposite Mary with "Judgment of the Storm," and does great work in a leading role in that picture. "Judgment of the Storm" plays at the Capitol Theatre tonight and tomorrow.

Sister Mary's Kitchen
SEASONABLE GOOD THINGS
A NICE hot sandwich which is especially good to serve with tea is the following: Spread thinly cut slices of bread with butter, then with orange marmalade. Put the slices (matched) together in pairs and remove the crusts, cut the sandwiches in halves crosswise. Put into a dripping pan, place in a hot oven and toast lightly on both sides.
Onion Soup.—Break the bone in six pounds of beef bone, add three quarts of water and let simmer six hours. Peel and slice six small onions and cook in enough butter to prevent burning, until soft. Strain the beef stock—there should be three pints—add two and one-half tablespoons of beef extract, the onions, and salt to taste. Cut bread in slices, remove crusts and toast. Place the toast in a tureen, add the soup, sprinkle with grated parmesan cheese and serve.
Stuffed Peppers.—Wipe four green peppers and parboil ten minutes in one quart of water to which has been added one-fourth of a teaspoonful of soda. Cut into halves lengthwise, remove the seeds, fill with creamed oysters, cover with buttered crumbs and brown under a gas flame. Wash a quart of oysters and cook them in their own liquor until plump. Drain and add to a sauce made of three tablespoons of butter, three and one-half tablespoons of flour, one and one-half cups of milk, three-fourths tablespoonful of salt and a few grains of pepper.
Frozen Tomato Salad.—Turn a quart of canned tomatoes from the can and let stand an hour. Rub through a sieve, add three tablespoons of sugar and season highly with salt and cayenne; then turn into half-pint baking powder boxes, cover tightly and pack in ice and salt, using equal parts. Let stand three hours. Remove from the molds, cut in slices, arrange on lettuce leaves, sprinkle with walnut meats and serve with mayonnaise.

RECIPES IN SEASON
NOW is the time to prepare some of these good things for the winter:
Cucumber Pickle.—Take one quart of small cucumbers, one quart of pared cucumbers cut into half-inch cubes, one quart of green tomatoes cut into cubes but not peeled, one quart of button onions, one large cauliflower divided, three green and one red pepper chopped. Make a brine of four quarts of cold water and a pint of salt, pour over the vegetables and let stand 24 hours. Put over the heat and cook until the vegetables are thoroughly scalded. Drain in a colander. Mix one cupful of flour with six tablespoons of ground mustard, add one tablespoonful of turmeric and cold vinegar to make a paste. Add one cupful of sugar, and vinegar to make two quarts of the mixture. Boil until the flour is well cooked and a smooth paste is formed. Add the vegetables and when thoroughly hot pour over the mixture.
Pepper Relish.—Take twelve each of green peppers, red peppers and onions, one and three-fourths cups of sugar, three cups of vinegar, two tablespoons of salt, one tablespoonful of celery seed. Remove the seeds and white fiber from the peppers, put them and the onions through the meat grinder. Cover with boiling water and let stand five minutes; drain; add the rest of the ingredients and boil 15 minutes and put into cans.

Pickled Spiced Onions.—Peel small onions and cover with hot water and salt, making a strong brine. Let them stand 24 hours, drain and cover with another hot brine. The next day drain and make a fresh brine, heat to the boiling point, add the onions and boil three minutes. Drain and put onions in jars with bits of mace, bayleaf, a few whole peppers and cloves and slices of red pepper. Fill the jar with hot vinegar, allowing one cupful of sugar to a gallon of vinegar. Seal at once.

THE STATE'S OLDEST NEWSPAPER
(Established 1873)

OLD IDEAS STICK LIKE GLUE.
The first 50 Packard autos were equipped with "whip-sockets" on the dashboards. Packard engineers remonstrated with the coach builder who had the contract to make the first 50 bodies. But for years he had made carriage bodies, and he insisted on putting whip-sockets on the autos.

This incident is typical of all human progress. The first railroad passenger cars looked like stagecoaches. The first autos looked like horse-drawn vehicles. No matter how revolutionary a new idea may be, when people put it to practical use they invariably insist on retaining some feature of the old device or system that is replaced by the new. Quite naturally, the airplane is a copy of birds and insects. Nature's "flying machines." Man couldn't be blamed for copying them. But the Ultimate Airplane may be an entirely different looking affair.

The human tendency, to attach a specimen of the old to new things, has a simple psychological explanation. People simply have confidence in old tried-out devices, and they cling to them as a sort of life preserver in case the new outfit doesn't work.

Probably the builder of the first Packard auto bodies feared they would break down and have to be towed home by a horse. In that event, a whip-socket wouldn't be a bad idea.

Radio, the most sensational mechanical development of recent years, changes swiftly. A new set comes out. You start to make it—and are apt to find it replaced by something better before you finish soldering the wires. Radio changes faster than women's styles, far faster. There has never in history been anything that has changed so rapidly—that has revealed a public tendency to discard the old and adopt the new without regret or suspicion.

This means that people are losing their chronic respect for old things. They are willing to take a chance and throw old devices to the ash-heap as soon as something better appears.

This tendency may revolutionize human thought and even systems of economics. When the American colonies broke away from the old country and set up a republic in government, they still retained the king-and-subject idea in that more important field, economics. The boss in business, however, is gradually being changed by evolution into a president of a business republic instead of monarch of his organization.

RUSS

Two important developments in Russia indicate the Bolsheviks expect to remain on the job indefinitely. They issue orders to remove the word "Russia" from all maps and documents. There's no longer any such country as Russia. Instead, it's the Federation of Soviet Republics. Financiers say the Reds have abandoned hope of ever reviving the value of the ruble. The ruble printing presses have been stored in the national museum. A new currency, silver coins, is being put into circulation. Rulers have confidence in their ability to hold their jobs when they, in effect, repudiate their own money.

YOU

Half a ton of blood flows through your heart every hour, says Dr. Henderson, lecturing at Harvard Medical School. This is a terrific amount of work for a delicate pump. It is obvious that life can be prolonged and health improved by getting plenty of sleep and lying down for 20 minutes or so in mid-day and early evening. When standing, our hearts pump blood the full height of the body. When reclining, strain is taken off the pump, blood flows like water through horizontal pipes.

SUICIDE

Germany announces that 5106 of her soldiers committed suicide during the World War. That is a very low rate—much fewer than the number that would have taken their lives if the war years had been peaceful. At least 10,000 Americans a year commit suicide. What irony, that people are more hopeful in war than peace! On the other hand, there must have been thousands of Germans who killed themselves but were recorded as victims of enemy bullets.

SOONER

The Senate has adopted the joint resolution for a constitutional amendment to have presidents inaugurated third Monday in January and Congress take office first Monday in January after election. It's a sensible idea. Most important thing for the public to keep in mind is that a political party by our present system is free to tinker with the laws for several months after voters have repudiated it and elected the other party to power. That's a poor way to play political baseball.

JOBS

New wonders of science, latest movie sensations—these are interesting. But, after all, to the average man the most important matter is jobs—plenty of work. The news along this line is good. Uncle Sam's Department of Labor checks up and finds that the number on the pay roll of manufacturing concerns increased better than 1 percent in February. That's not a lot, to be sure. But it's the first general gains since last June. Times are looking better.

A giant dirigible will start from Germany for the United States this spring, perhaps followed by an enormous cargo ship.

WHO FOR VICE PRESIDENT?

The day when the nomination for Vice-President was considered of minor importance has gone. The death of Mr. Harding and the succession of Mr. Coolidge to the Presidency demonstrated the vital importance of the Vice-Presidency in a way that the American people are not likely soon to forget.

When it was recalled that second place on the ticket had been offered by the winning combination in the Chicago convention of 1920 to Senator Hiram Johnson of California and been by him refused, there was thankfulness in many quarters that the convention had had the wisdom to name Mr. Coolidge.

The signs now point to the independent candidacy of Senator La Follette for President with the endorsement of the new "third party" forces. It is generally recognized that this move may result in preventing a majority selection by the electoral college. La Follette, it is admitted, may carry enough states in the middle west to prevent either the Republican or the Democratic candidate from having a majority of the electoral votes.

That would throw the election of President into the present House and of Vice-President into the Senate. The House would be restricted in voting to the three highest candidates on the electoral roll, and would vote by states. This again would produce a deadlock, with neither Republicans or Democrats having the majority in enough states to name the President. The Twelfth Amendment to the Constitution provides for this contingency in a peculiar way. If the House elects a Vice-President, the President shall be President, as in the case of the death or other constitutional disability of the President.

But the Senate in electing the Vice-President is restricted to the two highest names on the electoral college list. This variation from the formula prescribed for the House would doubtless prevent a deadlock. Senators would be obliged to choose between the Republican candidate and the Democratic candidate for Vice-President. Except in the improbable event of a tie vote, there would be an election, and on March 4th the man elected would, if the House was still deadlocked, succeed to the Presidency.

There are certainly possibilities, and they merit careful consideration. They point to the necessity for the use of good judgment in the two great national conventions. The second place on the ticket this year, quite aside from the always-present possibility of succession to the Presidency by the death of the incumbent, may prove of vital importance. Minneapolis Tribune.

ADVENTURE OF THE TWINS

BY OLIVE ROBERTS BARTON

One day Miss Pithers, the yarn lady in Doofany Lane, was milking her cow, called the cow-that-turned-its-head.

And while she was sitting there on her little stool, along came a curly black puppy that went "yip, yip" as he hopped.

And before the good lady could run for the house the black puppy not only went "yip, yip" but nipped, nipped, and catching an end of one of her strings in his teeth, he pulled and pulled until half of her skirt was unraveled.

At that Miss Pithers stopped milking and fainted and the cow turned its head and saw the black curly puppy and went "moo" at him and scared him away.

The puppy did not want yip yip, and hopped on and nearly but not quite forgot about the whole business.

Pretty soon he met the patent leather cat striding along and importantly stroking his whiskers.

"Yip, yip," barked the pup, trying to attract attention.

"Get out of my way sir," ordered the cat. "Children should be seen and not heard."

The black puppy stopped yipping at such an insult. "Bark!" he barked. "Children indeed! Why all you can eat is 20 twenty twenty mouse and I just finished eating half of a yarn lady. I'm a wild beast, I am!"

"Well, well!" cried the cat with more respect in his voice. "You don't look so savage. Half a yarn lady, indeed! Personally I haven't cared for yarn since I was a kitten. Good-day, sir."

The curly black puppy looked after him and went, "Yip, yip." That fetched him. I guess he found that I amounted to something after all."

And he hopped on.

Pretty soon he met the Canton-flannel monkey.

"You can't do this," declared the monkey, jumping up a tree and hanging by his tail, head down.

"My goodness! That's nothing! I just finished eating a whole yarn lady," declared the pup. "Gobbled her up just like that. I'm too full for climbing."

"The idea," said the monkey, "I beg your pardon, sir."

The curly black puppy noticed the "sir" and also that the canton-flannel monkey stayed up the tree and didn't come down while he was there. He liked that and went on down the road thinking, "What a great fellow am I!"

And so he went along telling people about his fierceness, each time adding to his story, until he met Nancy and Nick and Mister Fuzz Wuzz. And by that time he had eaten not only poor Miss Pithers and her cow, but the tiger and half the roo.

Suddenly Nancy laughed. "Look behind you, Mister Hungry," she cried.

And there was Miss Pithers, the yarn lady, all neatly mended and good as new.

"Some people have imaginations."

Too Much Competition

like a rubber band!" declared Mister Fuzz Wuzz sternly. "I suppose that what you had for breakfast was a saucer of milk."

The puppy was so mortified he didn't know where to look. "I—I guess I must have been mistaken!" he said meekly and hopped off to hide.

Country Club At Lake Made New Play Ground

Devils Lake, N. D., Mar. 28.—The work of turning the Devils Lake Town and Country Club property into a real playground for the people of Devils Lake and the Lake Region began Monday.

A full time man with team moved to the Country club property and has started at the work of repairing the buildings and outlining the work most important to the preparation of the grounds for play.

One of the most beautiful sites for a club house that could be found anywhere in this section of the country is located on the Country club grounds. It is about two hundred and seventy feet from the shore line and is just high enough so that an excellent view of the bay and the big lake may be had. The site is an ideal one for every reason, it

TOM SIMS NEWS PAPER

BONUS BILL IS IGNORED

SUBSTITUTE MAY PASS THE SENATE

This expert editor's bonus bill has been ignored by a lot of congressmen who never crawled up inside a helmet so far that only their feet stuck out to be shot at, and who never slept like a pretzel in a French bed.

Perhaps the substitute now before the Senate is a better bill, but this editor looks at it with the eye of a soldier. If the Senate fails to pass the present bill all veterans should write their congressmen to take up the too-long-ignored Tom Sims bill. The Tom Sims bill is simple and uses no tax money. The longer a man served in the army the more he will collect under the Tom Sims bill. It states in a few words, the bill is as follows: Give all war veterans the right to shoot craps with loaded dice, and they will collect their own bonus.

Possibly the first work that will be done on the property will be that of preparing a place for the foundation of the house and building that foundation. As soon after as convenient the trap house, the property of the Gun club will be moved to its new location on the Country club grounds.

A great amount of work lies before the members of this new outdoor club in the preparation of their grounds. The various assets that will be represented, if present plans materialize, 1924 will be a busy year in that the club house must be moved to its new location, foundations must be built, trap shooting grounds prepared, tennis courts built, fairways of the golf course worked over and put into shape, green built and kept in shape, and a thousand and one small things will need the personal attention of the many members of the club.

DAKOTAN CHARGES TEXAS

LAWYER EMBEZZLED $600
Minot, N. D., March 27.—Judge John C. Lowe and Frank Munz of Minot, have been subpoenaed as witnesses for the state in a criminal case in which a Brownsville lawyer, A. L. Lewis, is charged with embezzling about $600 belonging to Munz.

The embezzlement charge is the outgrowth of a transaction between Munz and the Brownsville attorney, wherein Munz alleges that he paid the attorney $600 to apply on a mortgage on farm lands. The money was never paid, it is alleged, and as a result Munz lost the land although the attorney later made restitution of the money after Judge Lowe had dismissed the matter with him.

In the afternoon Mrs. Minor suggested having tea in the woods, and they all walked—single file—five miles to drink their tea and eat their cakes (Larsen carrying the paraphernalia) in a pine grove on the summit of a hill, and then walked back again, clamoring for supper. Mary had been monopolized by Scores and Bolton occasionally vouchsafing Clavering a glance. During the evening they were all too pleasantly tired and replete to dance or to play the charades they had planned, but lay about comfortably, listening to a concert of alternate arlas and jazz. Clavering did not have a word alone with Mary. She sat on one of the divans between Gore and Todd, while Scores lay on the floor at her feet, his head on a cushion, one foot waving over a lifted knee, the perfect picture of the contented playfright. They kept up a continuous murmur, punctuated with gales of laughter. Clavering had snuggled in a chair beside Babetta Gold, whose metallic humor sometimes amused him, but she went sound asleep before his eyes, and he could only gaze into the fire and console himself with visions of a week hence, when these cursed people had gone and he was the most fortunate man on earth.

His room was downstairs next to Mr. Dinwiddle's, and he made up his mind to let himself out softly at midnight, throw pebbles at her window and whisper to her as she leaned from her casement. It was a scene that if introduced into a modern play would have driven him from the theatre and tipped his pen with vitriol next morning, but it appealed to him, somehow, as a fitting episode in his own high romance. But he was asleep before his head touched the pillow, and did not lift an eyelash until the first bell roused him at seven o'clock. Then, however, he lay for some time thinking, soberly.

He put his arm around her firmly. "I am not going to pretend any further," he said. "It is too big for that. And you have never been anything but Mary Ogden to me, except, perhaps, on that night I have practically dismissed from my mind. I called you Mary-Ogden to myself until I learned your new name, and I don't think that name has ever come into my thoughts of you. And although you slipped on another skin with it you were always Mary Ogden underneath. You needed a new name for your new role, but like any actress on the stage, it had nothing to do with your indestructible personality. I say this because I want you to understand that although I cannot play up to your little comedy any longer and go through the forms of wooing you as if you were a girl—I shouldn't like you half as well if you were—I do not think of you or wish you to think of yourself as anything but Mary Ogden."

He paused a moment, and she slipped her arm around him and they walked on through the wood. "I cannot go on with it because these days up here that we can spend almost altogether alone, if we will, are too sacred to waste on an amusing, but futile game. Do you realize that we do not know each other very well? I sometimes wonder if you know me at all. From the time I fell in love with you until you promised to marry me, I was at one sort of fever-pitch, and when I got to work on this play I was at another. No writing while exercising an abnormal faculty is quite sane. My brain is several pitches above normal and my nerves are like hot taut wires that hum like the devil. If this were not the case he would not be an imaginative writer at all. But he certainly is in no condition to reveal himself to a woman. I have made wild and sporadic love to you—sporadic is the word, for between my work and your friends, we have had little time together—and I don't think I have ever taken you in my arms with the feeling that you were the woman I loved, not merely the woman I desired. And I believe that I love you even more than I desire you. You are all that, but so much—so much—more."

"Oh, Excellence!" cried Mrs. Minor from the other end of the table. "What do you say to having a picnic lunch? Didn't you tell me that you knew of a lovely gorge about six miles from here? Steak broiled between forked sticks! Potatoes roasted in the ashes! Flapjacks! Heavenly!"

"Anything you say," replied Mr. Dinwiddle rather tonelessly. "Want to put it to the vote?"

"Let me answer for the crowd," commanded Todd. "It is our duty when in the woods to eat our meals after as much unnecessary toil, and to enjoy as much discomfort, as is humanly possible. Otherwise we might as well stay in town. We'll hilariously tramp six miles with packs, sit on the damp ground, extract earwigs, eat burnt steak and half-cooked potatoes, and then tramp back again, our spirits gradually rising at the prospect of a decent meal eaten in comfort!"

"Kiljary!" cried Minor. "Don't

DEMPSEY TO MEET WILLS?

His Manager Says He Will Fight Negro in Mexico

Omaha, Neb., March 28.—Jack Kearns, manager of Jack Dempsey, heavyweight boxing champion, told an Omaha World-Herald reporter today that Dempsey will fight Harry Wills, negro aspirant for the championship, at Tia Juana, Mexico, next Labor Day.

Kearns, here for a brief stop en route to the far west, said the only thing remaining to assure the fight was his arrival on the Pacific Coast to obtain signatures to the contract. "Jim Coffroth, race track man of Tia Juana, has made us this offer and we are going to accept," Kearns was quoted as saying.

NO PENNANT TALK IN SOX CAMP

Fifth Place Is Goal of Chicago Club That Shows Improved Morale

BY JOE WILLIAMS

Winter Haven, Fla., March 28.—Indicative of a drastic change in the morale and mannerisms of the White Sox players this year, under the Frank Chance administration is the announcement that Bib Falk in the future will be a member of the pitching staff. Heretofore Falk has played in the outfield.

We are told that under the Kid Gleason administration, persuasive efforts to induce Mr. Falk to try his hand as a boxman met with but scant consideration. Although Mr. Falk had come to the White Sox from Texas University as a pitcher he declined to mount the slab, after once starting in the outfield.

And such was the condition of the ball club in a managerial way that Mr. Falk was not only permitted to have his own way about the matter but no one thought anything about it. The White Sox had been drifting along like that for a couple of years. Nobody was surprised when a new manager was named.

How Will Falk Fare?

Change has been made on the coast, and is not to rejoin the team until the first week in April. In his absence Johnny Evers, the old Cubs' second baseman, is handling the club. Evers is in constant touch with Chance. Several weeks ago he wrote Evers to begin working on Falk as a pitcher. The next day Falk was in the box.

It will be interesting to see how Falk develops. At first he did not take kindly to the summary edict which changed him overnight from an outfielder into a pitcher. Now he seems to have caught the revitalized spirit of the team and is working enthusiastically. Falk has been told that he will be a member of the regular staff.

Two years ago Falk gave promise of being one of the greatest outfield finds of the time; he could hit and throw and run. A report gained circulation that he and Eddie Collins were to figure in a trade with the Yankees. Falk sulked when this trade failed to materialize and his playing slumped. At that, he was a .300 hitter last year.

Moriarty Praises Him
George Moriarty, the umpire, thinks Falk will make a remarkable pitcher. Moriarty toured the Orient with the American All-Stars two winters back. Falk worked in a couple of those games and pitched brilliantly. "I don't know of any reason why he shouldn't be a star," says Moriarty.

In the main, the 1924 White Sox will be substantially the same as the 1923 outfit which finished seventh. Ted Lyons, Baylor University youngster, and Milt Steingard, who was indelible last season, are the young pitchers to be watched. The infield is unchanged. The veteran Hooper isn't expected back and Elsh will probably get his job.

You hear no pennant talk in the White Sox camp. The White Sox surely hope to do better than they did a year ago. If they can beat out Boston, Philadelphia and St. Louis they will have no complaint to register. Fifth place is an important improvement over seventh.

Pitching Record Contest Spoils Career of Star

BY NEA SERVICE
Winter Haven, Fla., March 28.—Leon Cadore is down here forth with the White Sox.

Leon thinks he can come back. He feels the biceps of his pitching arm and smiles. "The old souper is as good as ever."

Hope springs eternal in the old-timer's chest, especially in late March and early April. Of course, Cadore's arm is not as good as ever. He sealed his fate as a pitcher the day he pitched 26 innings for Brooklyn against Boston, holding Joe Oeschger even, 1 to 1.

Cadore hasn't been a great pitcher since, and he never will be. Maybe he will step out and win a game here and there for the White Sox this season—surely none will begrudge him any amount of success—but when he talks of being as good as ever he is merely talking.

WILD PITCHER REFORMS INTO STAR FIELDER

BY NEA SERVICE
Sarasota, Fla., March 28.—Because Bill Terry of Memphis, Tenn., is a family man and loves "kiddies" he is now in the big leagues with the Giants and is accounted a sensational player.

Terry came up to the Giants a couple of years ago as a left-handed pitcher and was terrible. McGraw noted, however, that he took a nice cut at the ball. Later he learned the young man was a father of three children.

"Say, Terry come here," called out McGraw one day. "I'm going to send you out to Toledo. Forget that you were a pitcher. Tell Bres-

Will Baseball Trial Hurt Amateur Status

BERNIE WEFFERS JR.

Two weeks of baseball has convinced Bernie Weffers Jr., also John McGraw of the New York Giants, that Weffers is far removed from the big leagues. He has been furnished a ticket back to New York.

Weffers is one of America's best betters in the sprints at the coming Olympic games. His brief excursion in baseball, however, may affect his amateur status.

Plans to make a first baseman out in the American Association last spring and see how you look?" Terry was a wonder with Toledo in the American Association last year; he hit .377 and led the first baseman in fielding. Cincinnati is said to have offered $50,000 for him.

Star Recruit Does Not Yearn For Big Leagues

BY NEA SERVICE
Winter Haven, Fla., March 28.—George Connally, a right-handed pitcher who came to the White Sox from Galveston last fall, is somewhat of a curiosity. Connally doesn't give a rap whether he stays in the big leagues or not.

"I'd rather play in the minors, anyway," he insists. Connally happens to be a likely prospect and Ed Walsh, who has him in charge, is seeking to convince him that the big league isn't such a terrible place after all. Connally likes to play where he knows people.

"Shaw, I could walk up and down Michigan boulevard all day long and not see anybody I know," he laments. The Goddard of Golf is a fickle dame. Last winter the great Walter Hagen was the big sensation on the southern links.

Winning the tournaments staged at the various winter resorts of the south was a succession of successes for Hagen. He was practically unbeatable.

This winter, while Hagen has played good golf, it has not been the super brand that featured his play of last season; as a result he has been finishing among the also-rans.

It is a rather strange coincidence that Joe Kirkwood, Hagen's golfing partner, is hogging the spotlight in the south. In winning the three big events in Texas he played remarkable golf.

STOLEN BASE RECORD
With base running passe or several years, and threatened with a revival the coming season, it is interesting to know that Arlie Latham, with 951 stolen bases in 1472 games, the champion pilferer of the majors of all time.

Greek chronology was reckoned in cycles of four years, corresponding with the periodic Olympic games held on the plain of Olympia.

Brooklyn Vets Show Rookies Fine Points

JIMMY JOHNSTON SLIDING, ANDY HIGH WITH THE BALL

Major league managers insist there is going to be revival in base running this year. Big league leaders are paying much attention to this feature of play in the southern camps. Here we have Jimmy Johnston showing the rookies the proper way to slide and Andy High illustrating the proper way to put the ball on the runner.

WHY BANKS?

LESSON V

By J. H. PUELICHER, Chairman, Committee on Public Education, American Bankers Association.

Why does not the banker pay savers as high interest on their money as he charges borrowers when he loans them that same money? Text books say he must charge more than he pays so as to meet overhead expenses, his unavoidable losses, and dividends.

J. H. Puelicher

OVERHEAD EXPENSES = cost and maintenance of the bank building with costly equipment, such as steel vaults, so the depositors' money will be safe; light, heat, supplies, fire and theft insurance; taxes; and salaries to men and women employees of honesty and ability.

UNAVOIDABLE LOSSES = occasional unrepaid loans made to those who have the misfortune to fail in business. Although bankers exercise great caution and are experts in judging business conditions and character, they sometimes have such losses.

These must be met out of the gross profits from interest charged borrowers above that paid depositors—as fire insurance companies must losses out of reserve funds created by careful investment of premiums.

DIVIDENDS = money divided among stockholders out of clear profits left over after overhead, losses and all other interests of the depositors have been fully taken care of.

Thus bankers pay depositors less interest on their savings than they charge the borrowers of those savings so that they can earn funds to meet the expenses of rendering efficient, careful and valuable services to the depositors.

STRAIGHT TALKS WITH AUNT EMMY

ABOUT THE HOUSE MONEY

Aunt Emmy found Molly crying as if her heart would break.

"What's the matter, Molly dear?" she asked, patting the bride's shoulder.

"Oh, Aunt Emmy, it's that horrid money. The household money is gone again, and I don't know where it went. I can't tell Ted, and I can't finish out the week. And I was going to save some every week, too!" she wailed.

"So that's it! It certainly does beat all how silly people are about money. Now stop crying, Molly, and tell me how much you are short this week."

"Ten dollars," sobbed Molly. "Dry your eyes and come out with me," comforted Aunt Emmy. "Everything will be all right. The bank is soliciting small accounts. I noticed they have short accounts, too."

"I don't care," sobbed Molly. "I can't have a bank account. No money."

"You are going to open both a household checking account and a thrift account. A thrift account can be opened with one dollar, and you must put aside a certain sum every week. You should save two dollars each week. Money that you once get your hands on is mighty hard to save, so when we go to the bank we will ask them to take two dollars out of your weekly household money, deposit and put it in your thrift account. The thrift account will pay interest."

"But how can I keep my bank-book straight?" sighed Molly. "You can add and subtract, can't you?" snapped Aunt Emmy. "You went to school, you know, and the bank will be glad to show you at first. Come on, Molly, let's be going."

At the bank Aunt Emmy gave Molly a check to start her account. "You can give this back to me at the end of the year, Molly. You can save it easily. Never buy by telephone. See everything for yourself. Keep accurate accounts, pay your bills promptly and don't carry money around with you."

When they came out of the bank Molly was the proud possessor of two pass books and a check book. "I've always been afraid of banks," said Molly, "but I didn't know people in them could be so friendly. And besides getting things down in black and white this way will make it so easy to keep them straight. I just know it, will!"

Aunt Emmy smiled knowingly—

ANNE B. AYMES.

PREHISTORIC BONES FOUND

Ante-Dote Semiape of Prehistoric India, Claim

Los Angeles, March 27.—Additional human bones, supposed by scientists to be tens of thousands of years old, were uncovered near here today by excavators on the Canajao ranch. Laboring in a quagmire under a steady rain, the scientists brought to light what they regard as new evidence in support of their growing belief that they have uncovered the fossils of a race of thinking men ante-dating the semiape of prehistoric India.

Dr. Robert Thomas Hill, former assistant paleontologist at the Smithsonian Institute visited the fossil pit today to make close examination. He declared that there was every reason to believe that the skeletons had not been disturbed since the pleistocene period or ice age, which ended some 15,000 or 20,000 years ago.

Into The Attic

Few youngsters today ever saw a horse-hair sofa. They wouldn't know what to do with a fire taper, carpet stretcher, or coal oil lamp. They couldn't braid rags into a rug, or wind yarn without tangling. But they know the how and why of typewriters, phonographs, telephones, automobiles; what happens when a push of the button gives light, or a kodak's flash fixes their image on paper.

Their education is as modern as the advertisements they see. They have no more use for the lamp and chimney of yesterday than you for the wick and tallow of the day before.

Advertisements induce such progress. They urge wide use that means improvement. They help you lift the out-of-date into the attic—rid you of the water buckets and soap kettles of slavery. They bring late improvements within your reach.

Read the advertisements regularly. Keep alert to the new.

Giant Tunnels Under Hudson River for Jersey-Manhattan Motor Traffic

Tube Linings Will Contain 115,000 Tons of Iron and Steel

Total Cost $42,000,000

THE newest marvel of tunneling, the new vehicular tubes beneath the Hudson River, which will allow motorists to go from Jersey City directly to the heart of New York City, are now progressing rapidly.

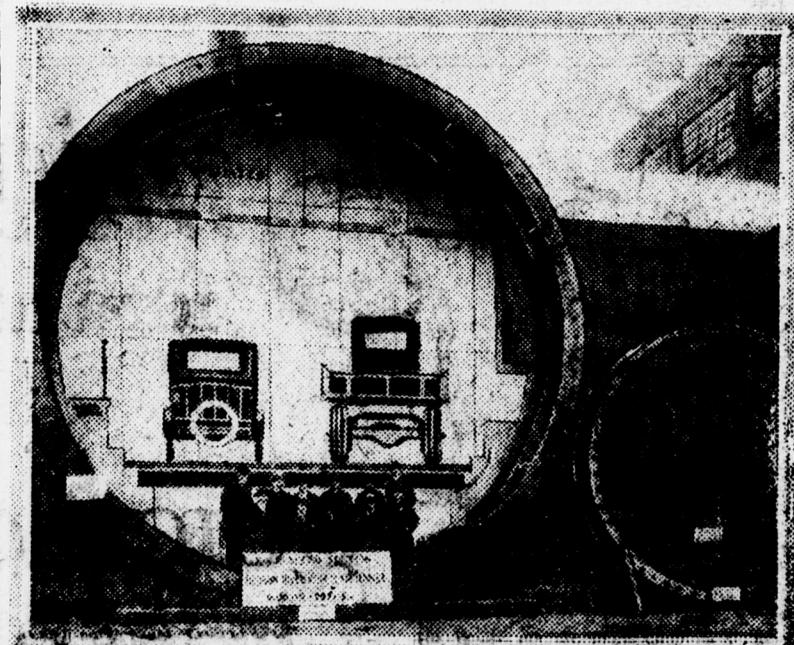

When finished the tunnels will connect New Jersey and New York with two huge tubes, twenty-nine and a half feet each in diameter, each accommodating two lines of traffic and each having an area three times that of the old "Hudson River Tunnels". Spaces are reserved at top and bottom for ventilation. The tubes will contain a compartment for fire apparatus and other safety devices.

The tubes are built of ring sections composed of fourteen cast iron plates or segments, each weighing 2,800 pounds.

The Bethlehem Steel Corporation is fabricating for the tunnel 107,000 tons of iron segments and 7,000 tons of steel segments. 105,000 tons of these have been completed and shipped or made ready for shipment from the Bethlehem shops.

The bore for the tunnels from the New York side is through rock, and progresses a ring a day. The Jersey side is river silt and work moves ahead at the rate of six rings a day. Three giant steel caissons were floated up the bay from Staten Island. One double shaft is located on the New York side and two single shafts on the Jersey side.

The ventilation and fire control systems are adapted to every conceivable condition. In case a fire should break out, it would be handled the same as and New Jersey.

The tubes, in fact, have already cleared the north caisson on the Jersey side and so accurate is the work of boring that there was only one-half an inch deviation when the bore reached the cement work.

When passing through the silt, the progress is sometimes made solely by the power of giant 44-inch, 200-ton steel jacks which drive the shield forward relentlessly.

The total length of the proposed tunnels will be about 3,250 feet, and their cost, according to the latest estimates, will run to $42,000,000. The ventilation and fire control systems are adapted to every conceivable condition. In case a fire should break out, it would be handled the same as and New Jersey.

DEMPSEY TO MEET WILLS?

His Manager Says He Will Fight Negro in Mexico

Omaha, Neb., March 27.—Jack Kearns, manager of Jack Dempsey, heavyweight boxing champion, told the Omaha World-Herald reporter today that Dempsey will fight Harry Wills, negro aspirant for the championship, at La Jolla, Mexico, next Labor Day.

Kearns, here for a brief stop en route to the far west, said the only thing remaining to assure the fight was the arrival of the Pacific coast to obtain guarantees to the contract. Kearns, who is a native of the state of California, has made up his mind and is going to accept. Kearns was quoted as saying:

NO PENNANT TALK IN SOX CAMP

Fifth Place Is Goal of Chicago Club That Shows Improved Morale

By JOE WILLIAMS
White Sox, March 27.—A change in the attitude of the White Sox players this year, under the management of the late manager, is the opinion of those who have been in the Sox camp. The Sox are not in the pennant race, but they are in the race for a better team.

We are told that under the late manager, the Sox were not in the pennant race, but they are in the race for a better team. The Sox are not in the pennant race, but they are in the race for a better team.

How Will Falk Fare?
Chance has been all on the outside, and is not to be taken for granted. In his absence, the Sox are in the race for a better team.

Star Recruit Does Not Yearn For Big Leagues
By NEA Service
Winter Haven, Fla., March 27.—George Connally, a right-handed pitcher who came to the White Sox from the Chicago Cubs, is some what of a puzzle. Connally doesn't give a rat's tail whether he stays in the big leagues or not.

It will be interesting to see how Falk develops. At first he did not seem to be in the race for a better team. The Sox are not in the pennant race, but they are in the race for a better team.

Two years ago, Falk gave promise of being one of the greatest outfielders of the time. He could hit and throw and run. A report gained circulation that he and Eddie Collins were to figure in a trade with the Yankees. Falk quipped when this trade failed to materialize and his playing slumped. At that, he was a 200 hitter last year.

Morality Praises Him
George Morarty, an umpire, thinks Falk will make a remarkable pitcher. Morarty toured the Orient with the American All-Stars two winters back. Falk worked in a couple of those games and pitched brilliantly. "I don't know of any reason why he shouldn't be a star," says Morarty.

In the main, the 1924 White Sox will be substantially the same as the 1923 team, which finished seventh. The Sox are not in the pennant race, but they are in the race for a better team.

Tommy Hughes, Boston University, who was selected last season as the best pitcher in the country, is expected to be a star. The Sox are not in the pennant race, but they are in the race for a better team.

Pitching Record Contest Spoils Career of Star
By NEA Service
Winter Haven, Fla., March 27.—Leon Cadore is down here forth with the White Sox.

Leon thinks he can come back. He feels the heaps of his pitching arm and smiles. "The old pitcher is as good as ever," he says.

Hope springs eternal in the old pitcher's chest, especially in late March and early April. Of course, Cadore's arm is not as good as ever. He sealed his fate as a pitcher the day he pitched 26 innings for Brooklyn against Boston, holding Joe Oeschger even, 1 to 1.

Cadore hasn't been a great pitcher since, and he never will be. Maybe he will step out and win a game here and there for the White Sox, but he is not a star.

WILD PITCHER REFORMS INTO STAR FIELDER
By NEA Service
Sarasota, Fla., March 28.—Because Bill Terry of Memphis is a family man and loves "kiddie" ball, he is now in the big leagues with the Giants and is accounted a sensational player.

Terry came up to the Giants a couple of years ago as a left-handed pitcher and was terrible. McGraw noted, however, that he took a nice cut at the ball. Later he learned the young man was a father of three children.

"Say, Terry, come here," called out McGraw one day. "I'm going to add you on to Toledo. Forget that you are a pitcher. Tell Bress."

smaller and the other grains had larger stocks. The movement of livestock to the South St. Paul market showed up in February, except in the case of calves, for which the movement was fully as large as that in January. If the shorter month be taken into consideration, hog receipts continued to be about normal and sheep receipts were sub-normal as compared with the ten-year average for the month. Receipts of all classes of animals were larger than a year ago, especially sheep receipts, which were two-fifths larger.

The feeder movement to the country was also smaller in February than in January, except for hogs. Fewer feeder animals were shipped to the country in February than in the same month last year, and the declines were particularly noticeable in calves and sheep.

District Summary
The February business summary follows:
The marketing of agricultural products in February was abnormally large. There were extraordinary increases in the grains, especially in corn, and hog receipts continued at high levels. The stability and improvement which took place simultaneously in the prices of grain and of much of the livestock in particular, noteworthy in view of the heavy marketing of the month.

The volume of business in urban centers in this district during February as measured by individual debits removed all the losses of January, and gained sufficiently to bring the total in harmony with the rate of improvement which has prevailed since the revival began last September. As compared with a year ago, the volume was two per cent greater, due in part to improvement in country flour mill production, linseed operations, copper mining, and department store sales.

Banking conditions have improved. Selected member banks in the larger cities reported increases in loans and deposits and reductions in borrowings during the six weeks ending the middle of March. This Federal Reserve Bank experienced a decline of more than three millions in loans during the same six weeks and returned these funds to trade channels through the purchase of government bonds and market bills, totaling nearly six millions. The flurry of demand for Federal Reserve notes which developed in February has completely subsided. Interest rates in Minneapolis remain unchanged. Commercial paper held in this district is fifteen per cent above a year ago. A chart published elsewhere in this issue, showing the loans, deposits, and borrowings of all banks in this district from 1913 to the end of 1923, indicates that during the past twelve months, deposits have been rising and loans and borrowings declining. How much of the latter may be due to the fact that some banks closed during the year it has not been practicable to estimate.

Building Greater
Prospective business activity as indicated by building permits is one-fifth above a year ago. These permits necessarily result in orders for building materials, labor and transportation, and these in turn affect retail trade, wholesale trade, and other branches of industry. While the total valuation should be a fair index to the prospective purchases of building material, it is believed that the average building permit is an even better index of business sentiment of general confidence. Since new orders depend upon business confidence, it is important to have some index of it. The average building permit will rise when large projects are undertaken. Presumably the larger projects are the most carefully planned and are either deferred or advanced in time according to the judgment of those who are undertaking them. These judgments depend upon current opinion as to the outlook for stability of prices and other equally important business considerations. This month we have made a statistical verification of the logic of this sequence of events reaching from the average building permit to the volume of business which actually takes place as shown by the individual debits. After making proper adjustments in the curves for seasonal and secular trends, it appears that a substantial amount of correlation exists between the average building permit and the volume of business in this district, with a lag in the latter of from nine to twelve months, with greater emphasis upon the twelve-month period.

Business Is Better In Northwest
ed a seasonal increase and the price of potatoes remained unchanged.
Greater Marketing
Usually large marketing of grain and livestock is reported as follows: Grain receipts at Minneapolis and the cash receipts increased between January and February, with the exception of the and flax. Such increases are extraordinary at this time of year. The increase in receipts of corn was especially marked, and February cash receipts amounted to $2,500,000. This amount was two and one-half times as large as the January receipts and more than six times as large as February receipts last year. A large share of this volume entered elevators at Duluth-Superior. In fact, February receipts of corn at the head of the lake were greater than the total receipts for the year 1923, causing elevator stocks to trade during the month. Receipts of wheat, oats and barley increased about one-fifth between January and February, and receipts of barley, oats and flax were larger than a year ago. Receipts of wheat and flax were smaller than last year in February. With the exception of corn stocks, there was no great change in terminal stocks of grains during the month. Stocks of oats and flax were slightly larger and stocks of wheat, barley and flax were smaller. As compared with last year, stocks of wheat, oats and barley were

WHY BANKS?

LESSON V

By J. H. PUELICHER, Chairman,
Committee on Public Education, American Bankers Association.

Why does not the banker pay savers as high interest on their money as he charges borrowers when he loans them that same money? Text books say he must charge more than he pays so as to meet overhead expenses, his unavoidable losses, and dividends.

OVERHEAD EXPENSES = cost and maintenance of the bank building with costly equipment, such as steel vaults, so the depositors' money will be safe; light, heat, supplies, fire and theft insurance; taxes; and salaries to men and women employees of honesty and ability.

UNAVOIDABLE LOSSES = occasional unrepaid loans made to those who have the misfortune to fail in business. Although bankers exercise great caution and are experts in judging business conditions and character, they sometimes have such losses. These must be met out of the gross profits from interest charged borrowers above that paid depositors—as fire insurance companies must meet out of reserve funds created by careful investment of premiums.

DIVIDENDS = money divided among stockholders out of clear profits left over after overhead, losses and all other interests of the depositors have been fully taken care of.

household checking account and a thrift account. A thrift account can be opened with one dollar, and you must put aside a certain sum every week. You should save two dollars each week. Money that you once get your hands on is mighty hard to save, so when we go to the bank we will ask them to take two dollars out of your weekly household money, deposit and put it in your thrift account. "But how can I keep my bank book straight?" sighed Molly.
"You can add and subtract, can't you?" snapped Aunt Emmy. "You went to school, you know, and the bank will be glad to show you at first. Come on, Molly, let's be going."

At the bank Aunt Emmy gave Molly a check to start her account. "You can give this back to me at the end of the year, Molly. You can save it easily. Never buy by telephone. See everything for yourself. Keep accurate accounts, pay your bills promptly, and don't carry money around with you."

When they came out of the bank Molly was the proud possessor of two pass books and a check book. ## STRAIGHT TALKS WITH AUNT EMMY ABOUT THE HOUSE MONEY

Aunt Emmy found Molly crying as if her heart would break.

"What's the matter, Molly dear?" she asked, patting the bride's shoulder.

"Oh, Aunt Emmy, it's that horrid money. The household money is gone again, and I don't know where it went. I can't tell Ted, and I can't finish out the week. And I was going to save some every week, too!" she wailed.

"So that's it! It certainly does beat all how silly people are about money. Now stop crying, Molly, and tell me how much you are short this week."

"Ten dollars," sobbed Molly.

"Dry your eyes and come out with me," comforted Aunt Emmy. "Everything will be all right. The bank is soliciting small accounts. I noticed they have thrift accounts."

"I don't care," sobbed Molly. "I can't have a bank account. No money."

"You are going to open both a household checking account and a thrift account. A thrift account can be opened with one dollar, and you must put aside a certain sum every week. You should save two dollars each week. Money that you once get your hands on is mighty hard to save, so when we go to the bank we will ask them to take two dollars out of your weekly household money, deposit and put it in your thrift account. The thrift account will pay interest."

"But how can I keep my bank book straight?" sighed Molly.
"You can add and subtract, can't you?" snapped Aunt Emmy. "You went to school, you know, and the bank will be glad to show you at first. Come on, Molly, let's be going."

At the bank Aunt Emmy gave Molly a check to start her account. "You can give this back to me at the end of the year, Molly. You can save it easily. Never buy by telephone. See everything for yourself. Keep accurate accounts, pay your bills promptly, and don't carry money around with you."

When they came out of the bank Molly was the proud possessor of two pass books and a check book. "I've always been afraid of banks," said Molly, "but I didn't know people in them could be so friendly. And besides getting things down in black and white this way will make it a lot easier to keep them straight. I just know it, will it?"

Aunt Emmy smiled knowingly. "You are going to open both a household checking account and a thrift account. ## PREHISTORIC BONES FOUND

Ante-Date Semapies of Prehistoric India, Claim

Los Angeles, March 27.—Additional human bones, supposed by scientists to be tens of thousands of years old, were uncovered near here today by excavators on the Cuyamaca ranch. Laboring in a quagmire under a steady rain, the scientists brought to light what they regard as new evidence in support of their growing belief that they have uncovered the fossils of a "race of thinking men ante-dating the semapies of prehistoric India."

Dr. Robert Thomas Hill, former assistant paleontologist at the Smithsonian Institute visited the fossil pit today to make close examination.

He declared that there was every reason to believe that the skeletons had not been disturbed since the pleistocene period or ice age, which ended some 15,000 or 20,000 years ago.

QUIET AT UNDERWOOD
Underwood, N. D., March 27.—In a quiet village election here, the following officials were named: trustees, G. T. Smith, L. Johnson, and C. M. Traver; treasurer, Wm. A. Gogster; clerk, C. O. Thompson; assessor, Ray Gergen; marshal, Andy Schatz; justice, C. F. Bauer; park commissioner, W. F. Schmidt.

LAFOLLETTE'S SUPPORTERS IN DELEGATE GAIN

Now Virtually Certain To Have Six of the 13 Delegates in G. O. P. Body

ALSO FOUR ELECTORS

Mrs. Christianson, Bismarck.
Only Coolidge Elector to Pull Out Victor

Fargo, Mar. 28.—With 34 precincts from Bowman county—a LaFollette county—yet to be heard from Robert M. LaFollette seems assured of six supporters to the National Republican convention and four out of five of the state's electors unofficially returns from the March 18 presidential preference primary in North Dakota.

North Dakota is allowed 13 national Republican delegates.

Calvin Coolidge received the presidential endorsement of the state, however, by an approximately unofficial plurality of 13,000 votes over the Wisconsin senator, Hiram Johnson, who finished last in the three-cornered race, failed to secure a supporter among the 13 national delegates or five electors.

Ira M. Fisher of Valley City appears to have first place in the national delegate race secured, having 45,229 votes or 224 votes more than her closest competitor, E. G. Larson of Ansonia, also a LaFollette adherent.

In the Republican electoral race Kristian Hall of Wildrose seems to have a comfortable lead for first place with 59,467 votes. He is followed by Martin Larson of Nome and Nels Magnusson of Souris, both LaFollette supporters.

No change was effected by incoming returns in the Democratic races for national delegates and electors between the party's two opposing factions—the Murphy faction and the Perry faction. The Perry supporters appear to have the upper hand in the electoral contest, having three out of five electors. In the national delegate contest of the party, however, the Murphy workers have five while the Perry supporters have four.

John Burke, Fargo attorney, who is endorsed by both factions, is leading the field with 10,884 votes, a lead of 3,019 over his nearest competitor, J. F. O'Connor, Grand Forks, a Murphy adherent.

Thirteen leaders on the Republican delegate race, as follows: Fisher, Larson, Sadlo, Spalding, Stern, Taylor, Elliott, Dinnie, Snowfield, Ward, Williams, Severson, Vogel.

The leaders in the Democratic delegate race are: Burke, O'Connor, Fisk, Hughes, McCoy, Murphy, O'Connell, Johnson, Leavitt, Lillibridge.

Five leaders in Republican electoral race are: Hall, Larson, Magnusson, Christianson, McGrath.

Five leaders in Democratic electoral race: McDonald, Kennedy, Green, Trimble, Strauss.

ARGUMENTS IN HAGEN CASE AT FORKS OPENED

Former President of Scandinavian American Bank Testifies For Himself

Grand Forks, Mar. 28.—Testimony in the trial of H. J. Hagen, former president of the Scandinavian American Bank of Fargo, came to an end today but the indications were that the case will not reach the jury before Saturday noon at the final arguments by the opposing attorneys are expected to take up all of this afternoon and most of Saturday morning.

Lars Christianson and E. J. Headland were the only two witnesses put on the stand by the defense this morning. Both testified as to the activities of Hagen in the bank during the last year of its existence but on objections by the state were barred from testifying as to any agreement between Hagen and the other directors under whom these activities were limited. Both denied having heard the conversation alleged by M. A. Hildreth in his testimony Thursday to have taken place between himself and Hagen at a meeting of the stockholders of the bank on January 17, 1921.

Hagen took the witness stand in his own behalf yesterday afternoon in his trial on a charge of accepting deposits in the Scandinavian American bank of Fargo, of which he was president while that bank was insolvent.

No key note of his testimony was the contention that following the reopening of the bank after the Langer "raid" in the fall of 1919 he was president in name only and had no real voice in the management of the bank. This policy he said was agreed to by him, and the other directors of the bank.

This was also the contention emphasized by John Burke, Hagen's attorney, in the outline of the case which he presented to the jury.
